SC Bench seeks data on alternatives to hanging

See if there is a more 'humane' method of execution that would render the present practice unconstitutional, a Bench of Chief Justice D.Y. Chandrachud and Justice P.S. Narasimha asks govt.

Krishnadas Rajagopal
NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court on Tuesday asked the Centre to provide data that may point to a more dignified, less painful and socially acceptable method of executing prisoners other than death by hanging.

A Bench of Chief Justice D.Y. Chandrachud and Justice P.S. Narasimha even mooted the setting up of an expert committee to relook India's method of putting to death its criminals.

The Chief Justice said such a committee would have experts from the national law universities, professors of law, doctors and scientific persons.

The court indicated to the Centre, represented by Attorney General R. Venkataramani, that it needed some underlying data based on which it could examine if there was a more "humane" method of execution, which would render death by hanging unconstitutional.

> If we have to relook death by hanging, we need better data... We want to know the impact of the sentence of death by hanging, the pain caused, the period of actual death and the availability of resources for hanging a person
> D.Y. CHANDRACHUD
> Chief Justice of India

"If we have to relook death by hanging, we need better data... We want to know the impact of the sentence of death by hanging, the pain caused, the period of actual death and the availability of resources for hanging a person," Chief Justice Chandrachud observed.

The Bench explained that it also needed to know what strides the fields of science and technology have made in suggesting "any other method of execution consistent with human dignity".

The court was hearing a petition filed by advocate Rishi Malhotra challenging the constitutionality of death by hanging as a mode of execution. Section 354 (5) of the Code of Criminal Procedure mandates that a person sentenced to death shall "be hanged by the neck till he is dead".

Mr. Malhotra said there is a need to evolve a "humane, quick and decent alternative". He termed hanging as "cruel and barbarous" compared to lethal injection, as used in the United States.

Justice Narasimha, however, noted that there was literature to suggest that "hanging is closest to painless".

'Some States are lagging behind on NPS dues'

NEW DELHI

Some States are falling behind in making contributions towards their employees' retirement savings under the New Pension Scheme, the Finance Ministry indicated on Tuesday, flagging "an increasing divergence of practices between different State Governments" in the way they handle pension obligations for staff recruited after 2004.

While a majority of the States are paying correct dues, "some have issued orders adopting NPS but not made due contributions", Minister of State for Finance Bhagwat Karad informed the Rajya Sabha, in reply to a query from BJP leader Sushil Kumar Modi.

IMF clears $3-billion bailout for Sri Lanka

COLOMBO

The International Monetary Fund (IMF) on Monday cleared a $3-billion Extended Fund Facility (EFF) for Sri Lanka, potentially unlocking more loans for the debt-ridden island nation that is struggling to recover from last year's economic meltdown.

"The objectives of the EFF-supported programme are to restore macroeconomic stability and debt sustainability, safeguarding financial stability, and stepping up structural reforms to unlock Sri Lanka's growth potential," the IMF said. Identifying corruption as a key issue, an IMF "governance diagnostic mission" has started assessing Sri Lanka's governance and anti-corruption framework in its first such exercise in Asia, IMF officials said on Tuesday.

6.6 magnitude earthquake in Afghanistan rocks Delhi

The Hindu Bureau
NEW DELHI

A 6.6 magnitude earthquake centred in Afghanistan rocked many parts of north India, including the National Capital Region at 10.30 p.m. on Tuesday.

Panic-stricken people rushed out of buildings in Delhi and many other places as the earthquake struck. It was also felt in Jammu and Kashmir, Haryana, Punjab and Rajasthan. No immediate reports of casualties or damage were reported.

There was disruption in mobile services in parts of the Jammu region, an official said.

The National Centre for Seismology reported the location of the quake at a depth of 156 km and centred in Afghanistan's Hindu Kush mountains.

"Though it was of moderate magnitude, the depth of it meant that surface waves from the quake travelled quite far," M. Ravichandran, Secretary, Ministry of Earth Sciences, told The Hindu.

"We don't expect aftershocks," he added.

Apart from India, tremors were felt in Pakistan, Afghanistan, Turkmenistan, Kazakhstan, Tajikistan, Uzbekistan, China and Kyrgyzstan.

Understanding waste-to-energy plants

What kind of waste do these plants use to generate electricity? Why is segregation of waste important? How is the Kozhikode municipality planning to implement the plant project? What are the various challenges such plants face?

EXPLAINER

Pushkara S.V.

The story so far:
The Kerala government recently announced the State's first waste-to-energy project in Kozhikode. The planned facility is expected to be built in two years and generate about 6 MW of power. There are around 100 waste-to-energy projects around the country but only a handful of them are operational, thanks to various production and operational challenges.

What do waste-to-energy projects do?
Waste-to-energy projects use non-recyclable dry waste to generate electricity. The process increases the State's power generation capacity and eases the solid waste management (SWM) burden.

Generally, solid waste in India is 55-60% biodegradable organic waste, which can be converted into organic compost or biogas; 25-30% non-biodegradable dry waste; and around 15% silt, stones, and drain waste. Of the non-biodegradable dry waste, only 2-3% – including hard plastics, metals, and e-waste – is recyclable. The remainder consists of low-grade plastic, rags, and cloth that can't be recycled. This fraction of the non-recyclable dry waste is the most challenging portion of the present SWM system; the presence of these materials also reduces the efficiency of recycling other dry and wet waste.

It is this portion that waste-to-energy plants use to generate power. The waste is combusted to generate heat, which is converted into electricity.

What is the Kozhikode project?
Kozhikode has a population of about 6.3 lakh and generates approximately 300 tonnes per day (TPD) of waste. Of this, around 205 TPD is biodegradable and 95 TPD is non-biodegradable.

The municipality is currently using the biodegradable material to generate organic compost in various composting plants. Of the non-biodegradable waste, only about 5 TPD out of the 95 TPD is recycled; the remaining non-recyclable dry waste could be used to generate power at the waste-to-energy plant.

Cleaner cities: The waste collected from all over Kozhikode is heaped at Njeliyanparamba, where the waste to energy plant is proposed to be set up. K. RAGESH

Why do waste-to-energy plants fail?
While waste-to-energy plants seem like a simple solution, they have several challenges en route to becoming feasible.

First is the low calorific value of solid waste in India due to improper segregation. The calorific value of mixed Indian waste is about 1,500 kcal/kg, which is not suitable for power generation. (Coal's calorific value is around 8,000 kcal/kg.) Biodegradable waste has high moisture content and cannot be used for power generation. The calorific value of segregated and dried non-recyclable dry waste is much higher, at 2,800-3,000 kcal/kg, sufficient to generate power. However, segregation (ideally at the source, if not at the processing plant) should be streamlined to ensure the waste coming to the facility has this calorific value.

Second is the high costs of energy production. The cost of generating power from waste is around ₹7-8/unit, while the cost at which the States' electricity boards buy power from coal, hydroelectric, and solar power plants is around ₹3-4/unit. While State electricity boards are considering purchasing power from newer renewable energy sources like waste-to-energy, the price of the power generated needs to halve. Finally, many waste-to-energy projects have failed because of improper assessments, high expectations, improper characterisation studies, and other on-ground conditions.

Waste-to-energy projects can consume only non-recyclable dry waste, which is about 25% of the waste; they are expected to only use segregated non-recyclable dry waste as well, which is the only type of waste with a sufficiently high calorific value. But often these projects are expected to manage all types of waste generated in the city which is is not good.

How can the plant tackle challenges?
Kozhikode's projected population and waste generation rate could avail around 100 TPD of non-recyclable dry waste to generate power. The proposed plant could absorb another 40-50 tonnes of such waste from nearby urban local bodies (ULBs). But this quantity of material, around 150 TPD, will be available only when the people follow strict segregation practices and also process biodegradable waste. Typically, waste-to-energy projects consume 50 TPD of material to generate 1 MW of power. At this rate, the potential to generate power from Kozhikode's and other ULBs' waste is around 3 MW. A higher capacity than this, such as the planned 6 MW, will be risky because enough material may not be available.

Operating waste-to-energy projects also depends on parameters like the municipal collection efficiency, waste segregation, moisture content, and the operational efficiency of existing biodegradable-waste-processing plants. If these plants have operational woes (as is common), the nature of waste will change drastically to have high moisture content and low calorific value, which will compromise power generation. Setting up waste-to-energy projects is complex and needs the full support of the municipality, the State and the people. To overcome its various challenges, the municipality must ensure that only non-biodegradable dry waste is sent to the plant and separately manage the other kinds of waste.

Importantly, the municipality or the department responsible for SWM should be practical about the high cost of power generation, and include the State electricity department, perhaps as a tripartite agreement between the municipality, the plant operator, and the power distribution agency. It is also crucial to conduct field studies and learn from the experience of other projects.

Pushkara S.V. is a practitioner at the Indian Institute for Human Settlements.

THE GIST

- The Kerala government recently announced the State's first waste-to-energy project in Kozhikode. The planned facility is expected to be built in two years and generate about 6 MW of power.
- Waste-to-energy projects can consume only non-recyclable dry waste. They are also expected to use segregated non-recyclable dry waste which is the only type of waste with a sufficiently high calorific value.
- Setting up waste-to-energy projects is complex and needs the full support of the municipality, the State and the people.

Is the SARS-CoV-2 XBB.1.16 lineage a cause for concern?

Does this emerging lineage differ in clinical severity when compared to other Omicron lineages?

Vinod Scaria
Bani Jolly

The story so far:
Over the past three years and multiple waves of infection, the SARS-CoV-2 virus continues to evolve by accumulating genetic variations.

What are recombinants?
Co-infection of multiple lineages of a virus could result in recombinations between genomes which can give rise to chimeric genomes, otherwise called recombinants. While most recombinations may not give rise to viable viruses, there is a rare possibility that recombination could result in the creation of a new lineage of the virus with better functional capabilities than either of the parent lineages.

Several recombinant lineages of SARS-CoV-2 have emerged during the course of the COVID-19 pandemic. Two such recombinant lineages are currently designated as Variants Under Monitoring (VUM) by the World Health Organization – XBB, a recombinant of Omicron sublineages BA.2.10.1 and BA.2.75, and XBF, a recombinant of BA.5.2.3 and BA.2.75.3 Omicron sublineages. The lineage XBB.1.5, a sublineage of the XBB, first identified in New York City in October 2022, is currently designated as a Variant of Interest (VOI) by the WHO.

What is the XBB.1.16 lineage?
First detected in SARS-CoV-2 sequences from India, the XBB.1.16 is a recombinant lineage of the virus and is a descendent of the XBB lineage. The lineage has been circulating predominantly in India. A significantly large number of the genomes from outside India, such as in the U.S. and Singapore, have been linked with international travel, mostly from India. The variant has to date been detected in at least 14 countries across the world. The lineage XBB.1.16 has a number of mutations in common with the VOI XBB.1.5. Additional key mutations including E180V and T478R in the Spike protein and I5T in ORF9b are present in the XBB.1.16 lineage. In contrast, the XBB.1.5 has the mutation T478K in Spike. T478R is associated with immune escape, or the ability of the virus to evade antibodies generated from previous infections or vaccines. The ORF9b I5T mutation is also found in the lineage XBB.1.9 and has been widely believed to lend a growth advantage to the virus. Preliminary data also suggest that XBB.1.16 has a higher growth advantage over currently circulating SARS-CoV-2 lineages, including the XBB.1.5 lineage.

Why is XBB.1.16 a cause for concern?
Amid the ongoing increase in the number of seasonal influenza H3N2 cases, an uptick in COVID-19 cases is also being seen in India in the month of March, despite the low number of testing. The total number of active COVID-19 cases across the country has increased to over 6,000. The fast-spreading XBB.1.16 lineage is believed to be responsible for the recent spike in COVID-19 cases in India. Although data from systematic genomic surveillance in India is limited, XBB.1.16 today accounts for more than 30% of all the sequenced genomes in the month of March 2023, and its proportion has been seen to be increasing in the past few weeks. The States of Telangana, Karnataka, Gujarat and Maharashtra have reported the highest number of XBB.1.16 cases. However, this could be biased as not all States proactively sequence their samples. Based on preliminary data, there is no evidence to suggest that infections with the XBB.1.16 lineage differ in clinical severity from those caused by other Omicron lineages although the higher growth advantage and immune escape could lead to a higher risk of reinfection with XBB.1.16 compared to other circulating Omicron lineages. Protecting the vulnerable through time-tested means could therefore significantly blunt the rise in infections.

The authors are researchers at the CSIR Institute of Genomics and Integrative Biology in Delhi.

Actor Chetan arrested over controversial tweet

Kannada actor Chetan Ahimsa was arrested by the Seshadripuram police on Tuesday for posting an alleged controversial tweet about Hindutva.

Based on a complaint by one Shivakumar, the police booked Chetan under sections 295A and 505(2) of the IPC.

In his tweet on March 20, Chetan said that Hindutva was an ideology "built on lies" and cited the examples of Savarkar, Babri masjid, as well as Uri Gowda and Nanje Gowda. He also tweeted that Hindutva could be defeated by truth and that "truth is equality". This, according to Shivakumar, hurt the sentiments of Hindus and provoked a breach of peace.

The actor was later produced before the court, which remanded him in judicial custody.

Bangalore Club booked for late-night music event

The Cubbon Park police registered an FIR against Bangalore Club on Sunday for allegedly organising a music programme late at night, causing noise pollution and disturbing the neighbourhood.

Following a complaint by residents, Mr. Ameerali, who was on night patrol, went to the club. He noticed that the club had organised a music event titled 'Those were the Days'. The programme went on till late in the night, causing disturbance and also violated rules, Mr. Ameerali said.

The police will issue a notice to the accused to appear before them for questioning.

'Ayushmati women's clinics' to come up at 57 locations in city

All the clinics will be opened by the end of April, according to BBMP officials; treatment will be available for all age groups of women, and clinics will also have referral and counselling services

Darshan Devaiah B.P.
BENGALURU

The Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) will start dedicated women's clinics at 57 locations, in primary healthcare centres, in Bengaluru to provide healthcare services to women from low-income groups who often cannot afford gynaecologists and other services. According to officials, all the clinics will be opened by the end of April, and they will be called 'Ayushmati women's clinic'.

"These clinics will focus on issues related to women. They will have a gynaecologist who will provide treatment and check-up for women. Treatment will be available for all age groups of women – from children to the elderly," a BBMP official said.

"Apart from this, doctors will treat other health issues, including diabetes and blood pressure. The clinics will offer suggestions to pregnant women, such as details about diet and hygiene. They will provide free medicines, along with pre-natal check-up," the official added.

The clinics will have referral and counselling services.

"Health complications of women patients will be recorded. They will be given an appointment to meet the doctor concerned in speciality hospitals for treatment," the official said.

To be painted in pink

'Ayushmati women's clinics' will be painted in pink colour, including the building, bed sheets, and covers, to ensure uniformity and for easy identification. The BBMP started 208 Namma Clinics in February.

The clinics, according to officials, are expected to ease pressure on existing healthcare institutions as they can treat non-communicable diseases, fever, mental illnesses, and handle immunisation programmes.

Modi will be opening 'half-baked' metro line, says Surjewala

The Hindu Bureau
BENGALURU

AICC general secretary Randeep Singh Surjewala on Tuesday alleged that the metro line that would be inaugurated by Prime Minister Narendra Modi in Bengaluru on March 25 was actually a "discontinuous, disjointed and disconnected" one that would cause more problems to Bengalureans than it could solve. The Prime Minister would be inaugurating a half-baked metro line between K.R. Puram and Whitefield, he ridiculed.

"The only yield will be a media event of the Prime Minister riding a standalone metro that is disconnected from the existing metro line. It will endanger public safety," the Congress leader claimed.

Addressing a media conference here, Mr. Surjewala said, "The Purple Line of Namma Metro is being extended from Baiyappanahalli to the Whitefield IT corridor. The extension of this metro line is running late by three years.

"Why is PM Modi inaugurating an incomplete metro line, more so, when it has no connectivity on either side – K.R. Puram metro station or Whitefield metro station? Why is PM Modi inaugurating the Purple Line of Namma Metro without construction of the mandatory link between Baiyappanahalli and K.R. Puram stations? Is it not correct that this missing metro link, which crosses over an electrified railway line, will take at least six months more to be completed?" he sought to know.

> Why is PM Modi inaugurating the Purple Line of Namma Metro without construction of the mandatory link between Baiyappanahalli and K.R. Puram stations?
> RANDEEP SINGH SURJEWALA, AICC general secretary

Mr. Modi will visit poll-bound Karnataka on March 25 to inaugurate Sri Madhusudan Sai Institute of Medical Sciences and Research in Chickballapur. The Prime Minister will fly back to Bengaluru in the afternoon to inaugurate the metro line and will ride in the metro. He will then head to Davangere to address a public meeting.

P.R. Ramesh, MLC, has demanded that a CBI probe be ordered to investigate alleged violations made by the Karnataka State Pollution Control Board (KSPCB) by providing consent for establishment and operations to 1,316 firms from 2007 to 2015.

Mr. Ramesh told reporters on Tuesday that the board in 2007 passed a resolution and gave permission or consent to nearly 1,316 entities to establish industries and plants.

"The law clearly states that you cannot do such a thing (passing resolution). I went to the High Court in public interest in 2009. There was a violation so the court observed and said that it was a wrong decision by the board. The board thereafter said it would withdraw the resolution in 2015. The court passed the final orders in 2022 saying the board has withdrawn the resolution," Mr. Ramesh said.

He added that entities which were given permission between 2007 and 2015 (until the resolution was withdrawn) had to come under the Water Act, 1974, Section 44 and that action must be taken against the wrongdoers.

"Whoever contravenes that provision of the Act shall be faced with imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than one year and six months but which may extend to six years and with fine. The court asked the board to take necessary action but they have kept quiet for the last eight months," he added.

Mr. Ramesh said that as the resolution had been withdrawn, the consent given on those resolutions was also nullified. Hence the permission or consent given to the 1,316 entities should also be withdrawn.

The 'feminine mystique': how it set-off second-wave feminism in the West

A concept, created through women's magazines and popular media, which elucidated how women were satisfied with their roles as homemakers/mothers. It was one of the most influential ideas in the 1960s which eventually led to a revival of the feminist movement in the U.S.

Rebecca Rose Varghese

Feminine mystique was one of the most influential concepts in the feminist movement, known to have triggered second-wave feminism in the U.S. in the 1960s. The concept was introduced by Betty Friedan in her 1963 best-seller book titled The Feminine Mystique. The term described the societal assumption that women found fulfilment through their gendered roles alone. Drawing attention to women's magazines and educational institutions that romanticised the homemaker-mother images of a woman, Friedan's book discussed the dissatisfaction and discontent among women, in trying to fit into the media's portrayal of a "perfect woman". The concept restricted women to the role of a happy housewife even when they could be freed from domestic work to pursue their dreams with the help of modern appliances and technology that reduced domestic labour – an option the women from their previous generations did not have.

Re-inventing the concept

After World War II, the men returned from the war. Women who up until then had filled the men's shoes, working outside and earning a living while the men were away, were now expected to go back to their feminine roles as obedient wives and homemakers. From there sprung the artificial concept of the feminine mystique. Men who returned expected women to be at their beck and expected complete devotion and nurturing from them. Moreover, in the 1950s, during the Cold War between America and Soviet Russia, the cultivation of a perfect nuclear family and the idealised image of a happy suburban housewife was part of a larger ideological battle between the two nations. And women, especially white women from the middle class were weaponised in this battle in representing a superior American society which idealised femininity and family life.

As explained by Friedan in the chapter 'The Happy Housewife Heroine', according to the mystique, the West has undervalued the virtues of femininity. The concept romanticises the notion of femininity and urges women to accept their feminine nature that could be fulfiled only through sexual passivity, male domination, and nurturing maternal love. It criticises women's attempts to be 'masculine' – to earn, or fulfil goals that were not feminine instead of accepting the virtuous mystique-approved roles.

Interestingly, the mystique was portrayed, through media and magazines, to be a new phenomenon that idealised the notion of a perfect housewife who was satisfied with domestic life. Yet, this concept was as old as time, since the aim was to restrict women to their gendered roles, limiting their dreams to the kitchen floor and home nurseries.

Questioning the mystique

In her book, Friedan looks at the idealised version of women presented in women's magazines that confined women to roles that the mystique found appropriate for them. Even when it was revealed that women felt unfulfiled in their gendered roles, it was attributed to education or lack of sexual fulfilment. Freudian theories also blamed women for their incompetence in not living up to idealised standards of the feminine and cited it as the reason behind their dissatisfaction.

Statistics revealed that by the end of the 1950s, more women were getting married at a younger age, bringing down the average age to 20. More women had dropped out of college and it was shown that they desired to fit into the standards of the mystique. Yet, in interviews, there was growing dissatisfaction among middle-class women as many could not find contentment in just serving the needs of their husbands and families. This dissatisfaction with being unable to live up to the 'mystique' pushed women into addiction, depression and a sense of emptiness. And thus, Friedan disputed the mystique and blamed it for women's unhappiness, which she described as a "problem that has no name."

Criticisms of the concept

Though the concept influenced many feminist movements, it was not without flaws. It came under heavy criticism for the false vantage point the author claimed (that of a suburban housewife and mother while she was a radical leftist) and for being a concept that catered to a select group of women. Black feminist scholar Bell Hooks, in her book From Margin to Center, explains how Friedan's book gave a one-dimensional perspective of women's reality that did not address universal problems women faced. According to her, it was racist and classist to portray the issues faced by middle-class women as representing the whole of American society. The concept failed to address the problems faced by women of colour and working-class women who had to join the labour force out of financial need and did not have the option of remaining housewives.

The book appeared blind to the plight of a section of women who were imprisoned by sexist oppression. The book talked about the aspirations of white, middle-class, educated women to leave their homes to fulfil their dreams but failed to talk about the women who would have to step in and do the domestic labour in middle-class households in such a situation. These women, from the lower-working classes, would have to abandon their children and dreams to ensure that the white suburban woman could fulfil hers. While Friedan's solution to these problems was for women to balance a career and a household, this ultimately added more pressure on women to create a perfect balance between work and family. It created a new ideal for women – the modern working wife which simultaneously belittled the homemaker who was unsuccessful in creating this balance.

In books and movies

While many books and movies lingered on the romanticised image of the perfect woman, many others have critically analysed the feminine mystique through these mediums.

For instance, the book, Stepford Wives (1972) by Ira Levin looks at the extent to which society could go to match the idealised version of a suburban happy housewife. The satirical psychological thriller, which was later adapted into a movie with the same name, tells the story of Joanna Eberhart, a young married mother and an aspiring photographer who moves into a Connecticut community from New York only to find out that the women in the town personified the image of the perfect suburban-housewife.

The women seemed obsessed with cleaning, cooking and taking care of their families while lacking any dreams or intellectual interests. As Eberhart investigates the reasons behind the strange incidences occurring in the town, it is revealed that all these women were replaced with subservient robots by their husbands in their goal to have the perfect upper-middle-class suburban-homemaker-mother/wife. The movie ends on an eerie note where the protagonist herself is replaced by a robot, with a finally satisfied husband.

The recent movie, Don't Worry Darling directed by Olivia Wilde also addresses the feminine mystique through Alice's (the protagonist) perspective in a similar premise.

Despite its limitations, Friedan's book captured the attention of women around the world, pushing them to introspect, question and re-define their roles and identities in society.

This false idea denied women the opportunity to realise their potential, turning them into frustrated spouses and mothers.

Not only has it helped many scholars in contextualising feminist issues but it has also inspired many writers and moviemakers to discuss the prevalence of the feminine mystique even in the 21st century and critique it.

Mr. Michael. V. McCabe, Vasant Vihar, New Delhi, writes: "You said "chucking it down" means "raining heavily." Perhaps, though I have never, ever heard it used that way. It means "eating a great deal" with the added flavor of doing so quickly. "I have never seen anyone eat so much. He's really chucking it down!" Secondly, when you described how to pronounce "mar," you wrote that the final "r" is silent. That, sir, is wrong. The final "r" is pronounced as any other "r" is pronounced – "r". Thus the word is pronounced "mar," just as it is spelled, and is not pronounced "mah," as you clearly implied. (You also might have mentioned the meaning "to deface or blemish" as in "You just marred my new table.") You wrote that "iron" rhymes with "lion" and that "horn" rhymes with "dawn," that in neither case is the "r" pronounced. That sir, is rubbish."

"Thank you, sir, for drawing my attention to the additional meaning of 'chucking it down' and 'mar.' You may not have heard of 'chucking it down' in the sense of 'raining heavily', but it exists. Regarding the pronunciation of 'mar,' 'iron' and 'lion' what I have stated is correct. It is the pronunciation recorded in dictionaries published in Britain. Perhaps you have a different model. Your spelling of the word 'flavour' indicates that your variety of English is not British. Then there is no quarrel. You are right and so am I. Thank you, sir, for your deep interest in the column."

"Mr. M. Chellappa, Pallavaram, Madras wants to know whether 'fulsome' means 'full of.'"

"No. The word is used in a bad sense. It means 'excessively complimentary, flattering, offensive to good taste.' It is used of language, style and behaviour.

I was shocked at the fulsome praise of the minister by the Vice-Chancellor.

The word 'fulsome' has only negative connotations. 'Fulsome praise' is not lavish praise. It is excessive, sickening flattery."

"Mr. P. K. Shamsundar of Gulbarga wants to know whether the following sentence is correct. 'His friend and doctor was with him when I called on him'."

"It is correct if his friend is also his doctor. If the friend and the doctor are two different persons, then 'was' should be replaced by 'were': His friend and doctor were with him when I called on him."

"Mr. K. Suryamurthy of Tiruvarur wants to know how to pronounce 'depot'"

"The 'e' in the word is pronounced like the 'e' in 'bed.' 'pot' in 'depot' rhymes with 'toe' and foe'. The final 't' is silent The stress is on the first syllable 'de'.

Now, Ugadi becomes a platform for freebies ahead of elections

Several MLAs and ticket aspirants are distributing clothes and ration; many are organising large-scale events such as food melas, cultural and entertainment programmes, religious events

Wooing voters: A banner of a religious event put up at Ganganagar in Bengaluru. SUDHAKARA JAIN

Politicians have been using every festival and occasion since Sankranti for electioneering by organising events and distributing freebies to voters in the city. Ugadi has also turned out to be a platform for the same.

Several MLAs and ticket aspirants across the city have been distributing saris, panches, and ration kits including rice, jaggery, ghee, cooking oil, and coconuts. Most of the MLAs and aspirants are also gearing up to organise large-scale events, including food melas, cultural and entertainment programmes, and religious events for the festival, which is celebrated as the new year in the State.

Karnataka Votes 2023

For instance, Higher Education Minister and Malleswaram MLA C.N. Ashwath Narayan has organised a musical event called 'Namma Malleshwara Ugadi Sangeethotsava' at Chowdiah Memorial Hall on the festival day, where popular musicians, including Kavita Krishnamurthi, will participate.

In many constituencies, MLAs are splurging on religious events to woo voters. According to sources, in Uttarahalli, MLA M. Krishnappa spent many crores on organising an 'Annamma Utsava' in which famous musicians like Arjun Janya and Chandan Shetty performed. "The event was so grand that musicians emerged from under the stage like in bigger concerts," a local resident said.

Sreenivasa Kalyana events are being organised in a new trend this year. Local MLAs sent out mass invites to many households in the constituencies while also promoting the event on a huge scale with posters and banners. While BJP leader S.R. Vishwanath, along with his wife, organised the event in February in Yelahanka, Congress leader Byrathi Suresh organised it in Hebbal on March 18.

Chief Election Commissioner Rajiv Kumar, who had come to the city for a review of poll preparations recently, had said the use of money power was a big concern in the State's elections.

He had expressed his displeasure that the State agencies had been lagging behind in checking distribution of freebies. He had directed officials to crackdown on the practice.

People shopping for Ugadi in Bengaluru. K. MURALI KUMAR

Festive shopping is going to pinch the pockets of consumers this time as the prices of fruits, flowers, and vegetables have gone up ahead of Ugadi festival. The rain last week in flower and vegetable growing regions around Bengaluru has added to the steep rise in prices.

Among fruits, the price of banana (yelakki variety) has jumped from ₹22 a kg to ₹60-₹70 in the last one week. The prices of orange, watermelon, musk melon, and papaya have gone up by ₹10 a kg over the last weekend. Although not spotted much in the market yet, the king of fruits – mango – is selling around ₹200-₹250 a kg this week. Among flowers, the price of sevantige (chrysanthemum) is in the range of ₹240-₹260 a kg as opposed to the usual ₹100-₹150 whereas the price of button rose has jumped from ₹120 a kg to ₹200. Kanakambara is the most expensive at ₹1,000 a kg while jasmine was priced at ₹500 on Monday.

"We expect a rise in the price of jasmine up to ₹800 a kg in the next three days," Mamatha, a flower seller in Hebbal, said.

Lakkanna, a flower vendor in Hebbal, said along with the festival demand, storing flowers and fruits to ensure that they remain fresh is a challenge during summer, which is why the prices jump around this time. While the prices of staples, such as tomato and potato, have remained stable ahead of the festival, the price of beans has seen a hike of ₹7-₹10 a kg in retail markets. The prices of carrots, capsicums, and green leafy vegetables have also risen by at least ₹5 a kg.

While some customers went to wholesale markets to avoid the surging prices at retail marts, others lamented the higher rates.

"It is usual that the prices of vegetables and fruits will be high during summer. But currently, this will hit common people more. The price of LPG cylinder was hiked a few days ago. This will make celebrating festivals difficult for common people," said Manjula, a resident of R.T. Nagar.

'Shifted', 'dead' voters have another chance to make corrections

The Hindu Bureau
BENGALURU

Following the identification of 16,040 'shifted' and 'dead' electors in Shivajinagar, Shantinagar, and Rajarajeshwarinagar Assembly constituencies through field verification and house-to-house survey, the Election Commission has said the affected electors will be given another opportunity to file objections and make corrections.

This is following existing rules and instructions/ SOPs of the Election Commission of India and directions of the Karnataka High Court, according to a press release from the office of the Chief Electoral Officer (CEO) for Karnataka.

"Another opportunity will be given to all such affected persons to ensure that no bona fide electors are deprived of their voting right in the impending election due to wrongful deletion of their names from the electoral rolls," stated the release.

"Abundant caution will be exercised, adequate opportunity will be provided, and all efforts will be made to notify the electors identified as 'shifted' and 'dead', before the process of deletion is undertaken as per law," the release said.

The list of the 16,040 'shifted' and 'dead' electors (identified through field verification and house-to-house survey) in these three constituencies has been shared with political parties. Following that the Bengaluru District Election Officer and the BBMP Chief Commissioner have been directed to ensure due steps are taken before proceeding with the deletion of names of 'shifted' and 'dead' electors in the three constituencies.

"A common notice, appended with the polling station-wise list of proposed deletions, will once again be given by the jurisdictional Electoral Registration Officer to all such voters through newspapers, having circulation in the area concerned. Starting from the date of issue of the common notice, the Booth-Level Officer concerned will be available for seven days during working hours to receive objections from the affected electors. Besides, the list of polling station-wise proposed deletion will also be put on the website of the CEO Karnataka," stated the release.

Bengaluru Karaga procession on April 6

The Hindu Bureau
BENGALURU

The annual Bengaluru Karaga, one of the oldest community festivals in the city, will be held from March 29 to April 8 at the Dharmarayaswamy temple at Thigalarapet in the heart of the city.

Karaga refers to a sacred floral pot carried by a man resplendently dressed as a woman. The 11-day festival starts with the flag hoisting on the night of March 29, with several rituals being performed each day thereafter. The main festival, 'Karaga Shaktyotsava', will be on April 6.

On Tuesday, Chickpet MLA Uday B. Garudachar along with Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) Chief Commissioner Tushar Giri Nath released the invitation of the Karaga festival and held a meeting regarding the festivities with the stakeholders, including the temple Karaga committee.

"Adequate lighting has been ensured and portable toilets will be placed along the procession route. The BBMP will also set up medical centres with medical officer. The Police Department will install additional CCTV cameras," the BBMP said in a release.

Congress workers stage dharna demanding that ex-CM contest from Kolar

Congress party members from Kolar and supporters of Leader of Opposition Siddaramaiah (in picture) staged a dharna in front of his residence in Bengaluru urging him to contest from Kolar. Mr. Siddaramaiah decided against contesting from Kolar constituency following the party's internal survey, which revealed a 'setback' if he contests from that constituency. For the last couple of days, leaders and party workers from Kolar have been mounting pressure on the former Chief Minister to contest from Kolar. It is believed that Mr. Siddaramaiah would contest either from Varuna constituency in Mysuru district, represented by his son Yathindra, or from Badami, which he represents now.

He said there were a total of 59 cases related to corruption during the Siddaramaiah regime.

Over 7,770 hectares of crop lost to hailstorms, heavy rains across State

In Srinivasapur taluk, officials say approximately 4,500 hectares of mango, 1,000 hectares of vegetables and fruits, and 30 hectares of flower crops have been damaged

Jahnavi T.R.
BENGALURU

The unseasonal showers that occurred last week ruined the plans of many farmers. Initial estimation by the Horticulture Department has showed that crops on approximately 7,741 hectares, valued over ₹20 crore, were lost. Kolar, where unusually-sized hailstones hit the ground, was the worst-affected district, followed by Bidar and Bagalkot.

In Srinivasapur taluk of Kolar district, where reportedly 100-gram hailstones fell for over an hour, department officials said that approximately 4,500 hectares of mango, 1,000 hectares of vegetables and fruits, and 30 to 40 hectares of flower crops were damaged.

Heavy rain and hailstorm damaged crops recently at Srinivasapur in Kolar district. BHAGYA PRAKASH K.

"We had not heard of such hailstorms here in 70 to 80 years. While mango is our major crop, tomato comes next. Both of them were badly affected by the rains. Other vegetables like brinjal, capsicum, and cabbage also had to bear the brunt of the hailstorm and heavy winds," said M. Srinivasan, Senior Assistant Director, Horticulture Department, Srinivasapur.

The farmers in the region were also baffled by the hailstorms. "It started suddenly and we did not know what to do. The size of those stones was so big that they actually broke open bigger fruits like watermelons. It looked like sheets of hailstones had covered our fields after the showers halted," said Shankar Reddy, watermelon grower, when The Hindu visited the district.

Mr. Srinivasan said farmers were told to attach GPS images of their crop losses along with their applications to avail compensation. "As this was a natural calamity, the compensation has to come from the National Disaster Response Fund (NDRF) and State Disaster Response Fund (SDRF). We will be submitting the report to the district administration," he said.

Between March 16 and 18, thunderstorms and hailstorms occurred in many parts of the State. "Many districts like Chickaballapur, Mandya, Mysuru, Belagavi, Raichur, and Kalaburagi have also reported crop losses due to the rainfall last week. Right now, we have the general estimation and the detailed report will be ready by the end of this week. Before the model code of conduct kicks in, we will submit the reports to the respective district administrations to help farmers with compensation," said Rajender Kumar Kataria, Principal Secretary, Horticulture Department.

Property received through partition cannot be construed to be acquisition by inheritance: HC

FROM THE COURT

The Hindu Bureau
BENGALURU

The acquisition of family property by a Hindu woman through a registered partition deed cannot be construed as an acquisition by way of inheritance under the Hindu Succession Act, and hence, such partitioned property will not devolve upon heirs of her father when she dies, intestate and childless, said the High Court of Karnataka.

"In a considered opinion of this court, it is not possible to hold that the acquisition of the property by virtue of registered partition by the deceased woman cannot be construed to be an inheritance within the meaning of Section 15 (2) of the Hindu Succession Act," the court observed.

Justice C.M. Joshi passed the order allowing an appeal filed by Basangouda, agriculturist and native of Raichur.

Basangouda's wife, Eshwaramma, had died issueless in 1998. Following this, the appellant had filed suit before the civil court seeking declaration that 22 acres of land, acquired by his wife by way of partition along with her father and brothers in 1974, belongs to him.

Suit rejected

The civil courts, while rejecting his suit, came to the conclusion that though the property was shared through a partition among the father of Eshwaramma and her brothers, it amounts to inheritance, and hence the property, on her demise, would revert back to her siblings, and not on her husband, in view of Section 15(2) of the Act as she has not left any will.

The Section 15(2) states that any property inherited by a female Hindu from her father or from her mother would devolve on heirs of her father on her death, intestate and childless, and similarly property inherited from her husband or from her father-in-law would devolve on heirs of husband on her death, intestate and childless, and not on any other heirs named in Section 15 of the Act.

Heirs restrained

However, the High Court said: "Once there is a partition and properties have been divided by metres and bounds, it becomes absolute property of such sharer. If the sharer had any surviving heirs at the time of partition, the property may become the joint family property of the acquirer and his family members. Therefore, registered partition cannot be construed to convey the property by way of inheritance at any stretch of imagination."

While decreeing the suit in husband's favour by declaring him owner of the property, the High Court restrained heirs of Eshwaramma's father from interfering in the peaceful possession and enjoyment of the suit property by Basangouda.

Yathindra's name cleared for Varuna, claims Siddaramaiah

The Hindu Bureau
MYSURU

Former Chief Minister Siddaramaiah on Tuesday claimed that the Congress high command had cleared the name of his son Yathindra as the party candidate from Varuna Assembly segment in Mysuru in the upcoming polls. However, he did little to clear the suspense over the choice for the constituency from which he would contest.

The former CM, however, does not rule out his candidature from the constituency

Speaking to reporters at the airport in Mysuru on Tuesday, Mr. Siddaramaiah did not rule out his candidature from Varuna even as he claimed that name of Yathindra had been approved by the high command. He said the high command had approved Congress ticket for constituencies from where they were only single applicants. Hence, Mr. Yathindra's name had been cleared for Varuna, he said.

However, when asked if there was a possibility of his entry into the fray in Varuna, he said nothing can be ruled out in politics. He identified Badami, Kolar, and Varuna Assembly segments among the options before him.

He said the party's first list of candidates is likely to be announced on Wednesday. When his attention was drawn to the statements of rival political parties that he does not have a constituency to contest from, Mr. Siddaramaiah said he had invitations from several constituencies to contest.

Cong. trying to entice voters through lies: Shobha

The Hindu Bureau

Stating that the BJP is not rattled by the guarantee cards being announced by the Congress ahead of Assembly polls, Union Minister of State for Agriculture and Farmers' Welfare Shobha Karandlaje on Wednesday alleged that the Congress was enticing the voters through lies.

She said that the BJP governments in the past had introduced several schemes without guarantee cards.

V. Somanna

Claiming that the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) top leaders had given the responsibility of managing party affairs in Chamarajanagar district, Housing Minister V. Somanna on Wednesday refuted reports that the BJP will field him in Varuna in case former Chief Minister Siddaramaiah is chosen to contest by the Congress high command.

'Tall leader'

"Do not create confusion. Mr. Siddaramaiah is a tall Congress leader. The BJP high command will decide who will contest against him. I have Govindarajanagar constituency and the leaders have asked me to go to Chamarajanagar," he told reporters here.

He said there were several candidates for Varuna and the party's decision will be final.

Mr. Somanna, however, recalled his role in the victory of Mr. Siddaramaiah by a wafer thin margin of 257 votes during the Chamundeshwari byelections.

Eyeing Hanur

Mr. Somanna, who is believed to be eyeing Hanur constituency, has been sulking and allegedly made an attempt to join the Congress recently. The party high command is learnt to Housing Minister V. Somanna says there are several candidates for Varuna and the party's decision will be final have intervened to prevent his exit.

Alleged difference

Asked if Mr. Yediyurappa had promised ticket to Preetham Nanjappa in Hanur constituency, the Minister said: "I do not know what Mr. Yediyurappa has promised. You ask him. Why are you asking me?" He also said: "If I want to contest (from Hanur), nobody will stop me."

On the alleged differences between him and Mr. Yediyurappa over distribution of tickets in Chamarajanagar, Mr. Somanna said the party will decide on the matter.

Kavitha writes to ED, hands over her old phones

Bharat Rashtra Samithi (BRS) MLC K. Kavitha has taken exception to the allegation of Enforcement Director (ED) that she had destroyed mobile phones on which she had conversed with others on Delhi liquor policy and addressed a strongly-worded letter to the enforcement agency on Tuesday on it while going for third-day examination in the case.

She exhibited the mobile phones she used in the past, pertaining to the period of Delhi liquor policy formulation, to presspersons before proceeding to the ED office for third day of her examination under the provisions of Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA) by the ED authorities in the Delhi liquor policy case.

In the letter addressed to Assistant Director of ED Jogender, she stated that she was submitting all the earlier phones, as sought by the agency, that she might have used in the past and which she could gather.

She was submitting the phone without any prejudice to her right and contentions including whether a woman's phone could be intruded in the teeth of her right to privacy.

The agency had chosen to make insinuations against her in the investigation of a complaint filed against some of the accused in the case in November last year alleging that certain phones stand destroyed, Ms. Kavitha pointed out, adding that it amounted to a glaring act of malice on part of the agency.

She sought to know under what circumstances the agency had made such an allegation when she was not even summoned or asked any question/information.

KPCC chief meets Adichunchanagiri Mutt seer; C.T. Ravi says those who called the characters fictional should apologise; it is an issue that needs further research

The Hindu Bureau

A day after Adichunchanagiri Mutt seer asked political leaders to stop peddling the fictional characters of Uri Gowda and Nanje Gowda as killers of Tipu Sultan and stymied efforts to make a movie on the subject, KPCC president D.K. Shivakumar on Wednesday stated that he would lead an agitation against spreading lies if the seer does not take the leadership role.

"The seer should take up the leadership role in the fight against the fictional characters and not invite someone for a compromise. As the spiritual head of the community, it is his responsibility to lead the agitation," Mr. Shivakumar, who met the seer, told reporters at Adichunchanagiri Mutt in Nagamangala. Stating that the Uri Gowda-Nanje Gowda characterisation is an effort to sully the community, he said: "If the seer does not take the lead in agitation, I will start an agitation keeping aside my political position."

He said: "Our community is big and there is no need to beg. We have pride and strength, and we will answer this narrative. We are not cowards."

Meanwhile, reiterating his statement, BJP national general secretary C.T. Ravi told presspersons in Tumakuru that Uri Gowda-Nanje Gowda characters find mention in Suvarna Mandya edited by the late D. Javare Gowda, a former Vice-Chancellor of Mysore University, and released in 2006. "It is not our creation and our government was not there. Those who called the characters fictional or lies should apologise. It is an issue that has to be researched further. We will continue to search for more documents."

He said: "We respect the seer's stand. However, we continue to hold our stand on Tipu as communal."

Meanwhile, Union Minister Shobha Karandlaje said the seer expressed his opinion. "He has said further research is needed and we agree. We are basing our argument on Suvarna Mandya. We should research together to understand the truth."

Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai too maintained that there was no question of the party having suffered a setback with respect to this issue. However, differing from party colleagues, Housing Minister V. Somanna told presspersons at Bengaluru that it was a useless issue, and the focus should be on the development of the State and the country, and the future of youth as spoken by Prime Minister Modi.

Tamil Nadu Chief Minister M.K. Stalin on Tuesday presented ₹1 crore to Kartiki Gonsalves, director of the Oscar-winning documentary The Elephant Whisperers.

Ms. Gonsalves, who shot the documentary over five years, said it was an honour to win the Oscars. "It's for women, for conservation, and for the protection of wild species," she added. The film revolves around the lives of caretakers Bomman and Bellie at the Theppakadu elephant camp in the Mudumalai Tiger Reserve (MTR) and Ragu, the calf they raise. Ragu was brought to the camp as a six-month-old orphan. The story is also about the duo caring for another abandoned calf Ammu.

Mr. Stalin had felicitated the caretakers of Ragu with a citation and ₹1 lakh cheque on March 15. As per the CM's announcement, a grant of ₹1 lakh each from the Chief Minister's Public Relief Fund has been given to all 91 mahouts and cavadis working in the Thepakkadu elephant camp of MTR and Kozhikammuthi elephant camp of Anamalai Tiger Reserve, as per an official release.

In observation made at 4.00 p.m., Jhunjhunu, Rajasthan recorded an overall air quality index (AQI) score of 205 indicating an unhealthy level of pollution. In contrast, Ramanathapuram, Tamil Nadu recorded a healthy AQI score of 15

Air Quality Code: Poor Moderate Good (Readings indicate average AQI)

SO_2: Sulphur Dioxide. Short-term exposure can harm the respiratory system, making breathing difficult. It can affect visibility by reacting with other air particles to form haze and stain culturally important objects such as statues and monuments.

NO_2: Nitrogen Dioxide. Aggravates respiratory illness, causes haze to form by reacting with other air particles, causes acid rain, pollutes coastal waters.

CO: Carbon monoxide. High concentration in air reduces oxygen supply to critical organs like the heart and brain. At very high levels, it can cause dizziness, confusion, unconsciousness and even death.

PM2.5 & PM10: Particulate matter pollution can cause irritation of the eyes, nose and throat, coughing, chest tightness and shortness of breath, reduced lung function, irregular heartbeat, asthma attacks, heart attacks and premature death in people with heart or lung disease

Trouble in Punjab

The governments at the Centre and in the State must guard against separatism

The police action against violent separatists in Punjab is a case of better late than never. Religious fanaticism in the State has been raising its ugly head in recent years, and going out of control in recent months, with open calls for violence and threats to state functionaries including Union Ministers. On February 23, a mob overran a police station and freed suspects, which was a complete breakdown of law and order. The challenge appears to be daunting for the inexperienced Aam Aadmi Party government, and the situation needs more visible coordination and action by the Centre and the State. The violent campaign in the 1980s for a separate Khalistan, supported by Pakistan, had pulverised the State and claimed the lives of a sitting Prime Minister and thousands of innocents in a genocidal outrage targeting the Sikh community. That trauma should not be allowed to return and torment the community or India. Sikhs are a highly mobile and enterprising community, now spread around the world, but economic and social stagnation is taking its toll. Agriculture is facing a crisis, and drug abuse is rampant. Trouble-makers are smelling an opportunity to incite violence.

A wound that is allowed to fester will sicken the whole body. The looming trouble in Punjab is being inflamed by a mix of religious fanaticism, foreign-aided opportunism, and a societal crisis. The mobilisation of a section of the Sikh diaspora in the United Kingdom, Canada and Australia for the cause of separatism is also a worrying sign for India. The Centre has to work with Punjab and foreign governments to contain this malaise. Violent tendencies must be nipped in the bud and proponents of hate must pay a price. Also, there has to be a conscious effort to communicate with the Sikh community at large to isolate the toxic elements. To the world and to citizens, the message must be clear that India remains a multireligious and multicultural nation that does not tolerate or require separatism. A lack of trust between the farmers of Punjab and the Centre had derailed the agriculture laws that sought to reform the sector in 2021. A combination of strict force against violent elements and trust-building with the general public should be at the heart of the rhetoric and policy of the government. At any rate, no rhetoric from any quarter should be encouraged that causes more alienation.

Tightrope walk

India cannot afford any shift in its balancing act on geopolitical issues

Since 2006, the Prime Ministers of India and Japan have exchanged visits for their "annual summit", a meeting that has steered the course of this bilateral relationship. However, it was not the India-Japan Special Strategic and Global Partnership that was at the heart of the Japan Prime Minister Fumio Kishida's mission during his quick "official visit" to Delhi this week. His focus was on two areas: coordinating the G-7 and G-20 agendas on food and energy security issues arising mainly from the Ukraine conflict as well as unveiling Japan's $75 billion plan for a Free and Open Indo-Pacific (FOIP), to work with countries in the region on avoiding debt traps, building infrastructure, and enhancing maritime and air security. Mr. Kishida appeared to be emphasising the need for a global consensus, especially including India, in tackling the challenges from Russia and China, where Japan is aligned with western powers. In talks with Prime Minister Narendra Modi, Mr. Kishida is understood to have been "straightforward" about the need for India, as G-20 president, to come on board with the G-7's plans to address the Ukraine issue and call out "Russian aggression". While he did not name China directly, it is clear that Chinese actions in its neighbourhood have left Japan concerned, and his FOIP plan includes India as an "indispensable partner". The timing of his visit was also pointed, coinciding with Chinese President Xi Jinping's Moscow visit. And, as Mr. Xi met with Russian President Vladimir Putin in a show of strength on Tuesday, Mr. Kishida flew to Kiev to support Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy, his first such visit since the war began.

For New Delhi, that has close ties with Tokyo, as bilateral and multilateral cooperation (the Quad), Mr. Kishida was a welcome guest. The two countries have many collaborations that include the Japanese loan for the much-delayed "Bullet train" project, and plans to work on infrastructure projects to link Bangladesh and India's northeast. As presidents of the G-7 and G-20, both nations have much to gain from synchronising priorities and ensuring that the Global South gets its fair share of the outcomes of both summits. An end to the Ukraine war and a pushback against China's aggression in its neighbourhood are also common goals. However, it would be wrong to assume that they share similar positions on them. Unlike India, Japan is part of the U.S.'s alliance. Japan has also joined sanctions against Russia, while India has refused to do so. India has been vocal about its concerns over China's actions at the Line of Actual Control (LAC) but reticent in directly criticising China's actions in the South China Sea, Taiwan Straits, etc. With Mr. Modi set to visit Hiroshima as a G-7 special invitee in May, and later host Mr. Xi and Mr. Putin at the Summit of the Shanghai Cooperation Organisation, any shift in New Delhi's tightrope balancing act on geopolitical issues would seem a stretch, even at the behest of a dear partner like Japan.

Discrimination in the IITs is something to write about

Rajendran Narayanan

A perspective by two IIT alumni on what they saw and how discrimination operated on the pretext of merit

Darshan Solanki, an undergraduate student of chemical engineering at the Indian Institute of Technology (IIT) Bombay, ended his life on February 12, 2023. He was a Dalit. The institute formed a 12-member committee to conduct an investigation, which submitted its report on March 2. The report said, "It appears from the marks obtained in various courses that the performance of Darshan Solanki deteriorated specifically in the second half of the autumn semester. His deteriorating academic performance could have affected him seriously." The report further said: "Other than the statement of Darshan's sister, there is no specific evidence of direct caste-based discrimination faced by him during his stay at IIT Bombay."

A continuous process

Unlike the hard sciences, establishing causal links of discrimination is challenging. However, the lack of tools to establish causality does not negate the presence of discrimination. In thinking about marginalisation, the tendency is to sympathise with the most victimised. While that is understandable, it should not dilute the many forms of discrimination. What is needed is not sympathy or band-aid empathy for the most victimised but a constant engagement with the politics of assertion because discrimination is not necessarily a one-off, high-pitched melodramatic event of hurling abuses at somebody. It is a layered and continuous process that happens through everyday doses, steadily creating an atmosphere of "us" and "them". It takes subtle, seemingly innocuous forms such as a smile combined with a frown, a wince, a hand gesture, or just silence. And, a discussion on discrimination at the IITs needs to be predicated on a discussion on merit as it is the embedded idea of merit that gives licence to discriminate.

The political philosopher, Michael Sandel, in the book, The Tyranny of Merit, presents a scathing critique of meritocracy as a societal ideal and argues how hubris among the elites and a politics of humiliation are natural outcomes of meritocracy. This is not to suggest that every upper-caste student at the IITs discriminates or that every lower-caste student feels victimised. However, some upper-caste students at the IITs, knowingly or unknowingly, embody what Sandel calls "credentialist prejudice" as symptomatic of meritocratic arrogance. This happens, when elites tend to "look down on those who do not rise". Such an approach "undermines social recognition and esteem for those who lack the credentials the system rewards".

Variations of graded inequality and, consequently, discriminatory judgements about one's so-called abilities are deeply entrenched within the veneer of merit at the IITs.

On campus

Soon after one enters IIT campuses, one steps into well-demarcated zones of hierarchy. The first level of hierarchy is whether you are an undergraduate or a postgraduate student. Intermingling of these two cohorts was an exception than the norm as undergraduates tended to feel superior to postgraduates. For undergraduates, one's abilities are immediately tattooed in the minds of everyone based on one's rank in the entrance exams. Much like the accident of birth, one's branch of studies is an accident of one's rank. This then becomes the unique identifier of this phantom called merit; then, slowly, the lines between being objective and objectifying get blurred.

The accident of the branch of studies results in disinterest and disillusionment among some students. But it plays out differently among students across caste. On average, for some upper-caste disinterested students, it becomes an opportunity to explore other facets, which then acts as a justification for bad academic performance in college. There is usually an implicit confidence among such students that they could be bailed out when needed, owing to their family connections, affluence, cultural capital or social networks with 'successful' people. These act as cushions for them to take risks in college. Think of how and whom you would refer for a job in your company where you get a referral bonus.

However, on average, even when some students on 'reservation' feel trapped in a branch not of their choice, they do not have the luxury to explore or take the same kind of risks as their upper-caste counterparts. More often, they lack similar connections, affluence or cultural capital as their upper-caste friends. An apprehension of being stigmatised for bad academic performance tends to amplify their anxiety and pressure. What these imply is that even the freedom to take chances is implicitly conditioned on one's rank and caste location. The buoyancy of youth is not equal for everyone. What merit completely fails to account for are the starting points, the trajectories, the social networks, the affluence, the prejudices, hardships and innumerable other factors that shape us. Contrary to what we were told, we realised that it was never a level-playing field. Metaphorically speaking, in a 100 metre race, people like us were running downhill, and many others from historically marginalised backgrounds were doing so uphill. In most cases, not only did our slopes differ but also that some of us were just running 50 m downhill while many others had to run 500 m uphill and the only metric to compare our abilities was the time taken to complete our races. This is what ranks or grades do. The argument of using rank or grades as a proxy for merit is like using a person's body temperature as a sole metric to assess health, ignoring one's age, gender or other pre-existing health conditions.

The principle of equal opportunity is only a corrective measure of historical injustice. It is not a sufficient principle to foster an equitable society devoid of discrimination. Sandel quoting British economic historian, R.H. Tawney, writes: 'social well-being depends upon cohesion and solidarity. Individual happiness does not only require that men should be free to rise to new positions of comfort and distinction; it also requires that they should be able to lead a life of dignity and culture, whether they rise or not.'

In perspective

We write this from the perspective of being alumni of two different branches from two IITs and societally identified with the privileged upper castes. This is neither a sentimental confession nor is this any grand theory of caste discrimination at the IITs. This is merely a reflection on what we saw and how we were occupants of the upper echelons by default and, on occasions, were either silent or ignorant about how discrimination operated on the pretext of merit. There is no denying that every student at the IITs has put in immense effort to get in but it has taken us a while to realise that calling it merit was erroneous. The tragic case of Darshan Solanki should serve as a reminder to lakhs of elite alumni from the IITs to pause and reflect on the blind spots of biases they may have had during their student days. Being key institutional collaborators, it is equally important for the faculty at the IITs to re-imagine classrooms as spaces free of meritocratic or discriminatory judgements. Building empathy and fostering a culture of equality, dignity, and fraternity cannot happen through short orientation programmes. These should be built-into the curriculum at the IITs and should become the DNA of campus life for learning spaces to be sanctuaries. These are not just moral imperatives but can play a huge role for a healthier and prosperous India.

An objective look at a China-led framework

Beijing's Global Security Initiative, which is a vision of a future security order, is vastly different from China's recent track record of external engagement

In his keynote speech at the Lanting Forum in Beijing on February 21, Chinese Minister of Foreign Affairs Qin Gang highlighted the recently unveiled Global Security Initiative (GSI) Concept Paper. The GSI is presented as a China-led framework that seeks to restore stability and security, particularly in Asia. Accordingly, Mr. Qin outlined five major pillars to effectively implement the GSI, i.e., mutual respect; openness and inclusion; multilateralism; mutual benefit, and a holistic approach.

The substance of the narrative

While the promotion of such principles is timely and critical, given the current shifts in the international geopolitical landscape at the expense of the developing world, a practical assessment indicates that the GSI is tailored more to be an empty narrative to compete with United States leadership and dominant U.S.-led concepts. Consequently, with the war in Ukraine intensifying and diverging perceptions among developing countries vis-à-vis the West and the unfolding war, China is seeking to leverage these fault lines by promoting its vision as a capable alternative leader. However, an objective look at China's recent track record of external engagement paints a completely different picture of what to expect from Beijing's vision of a future security order.

The crux of the GSI's first principle centres on the need for countries to adhere to the United Nations Charter and international law while facilitating relations based on mutual trust and respect for each other's sensitivities. During these past few years, China has consistently demonstrated the exact opposite in terms of its relations with its neighbours. Along its southwestern border, China continues to ensure that its relations with New Delhi are provocative by not only unilaterally disregarding confidence building measures and bilateral agreements but also by constantly undermining India's territorial integrity and sovereignty. Similarly, China is also increasing its assertive manoeuvres in the South China Sea by greatly militarising the disputed maritime territory at the expense of the sovereignty and the sovereign rights of its Southeast Asian neighbours. Further, in its complete rejection of international law, particularly the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea (UNCLOS), China continues to assertively intrude and block the access of its neighbours within their respective Exclusive Economic Zones.

The second principle of the GSI lies in its openness to spearhead inclusive international engagements. While this position has been catalysed by the presence of U.S. treaty alliances in the Western Pacific, ironically, China also continues to engage in exclusionary policies in the East and South China Seas. Not only is this an outright rejection of freedom of navigation enshrined in international law but it is also a display of narrowly defined interests to consolidate its sphere of influence in the region.

On security cooperation

The third principle focuses on bilateral and multilateral security cooperation and consultations to address issues of concern with the parties involved. While China plays a prominent role in various multilateral institutions, its understanding of consultation can be seen through the prism of asymmetric power relations such as constraining members of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations from pursuing collective actions against Beijing's assertion. Moreover, China continues to delay the establishment of a crucial Code of Conduct for the South China Sea as it continues to bolster its military power projection in the disputed territory and indulge in various grey zone strategies.

The fourth principle highlights the GSI's prioritisation of positive-sum cooperation, where parties involved can equally benefit. While in theory, China's Belt and Road Initiative is a much-needed cooperative framework given the significant infrastructure deficit in the developing world, it is its disregard for international macroeconomic stability by funding unsustainable projects for countries with low or non-existing credit ratings that creates more debt burdens for these countries. Moreover, as another illustration of Beijing's disregard for its neighbour's sovereignty and sovereign rights, China insisted on receiving a larger share in its bid for a joint exploration of resources with Manila in Philippine waters.

The 'holistic' line

The last principle of the GSI advocates a holistic approach towards traditional and non-traditional security threats, with an equal emphasis on eliminating any "breeding ground for insecurity". Throughout the years, the rise of China in a transitioning multipolar international system has resulted in power competitions with established and rising great powers (such as the U.S. and India, respectively) that seek to preserve and strengthen the established order. Rather than being holistic, China's engagements with these powers indicate a more narrowly defined goal for its power interests. In addition, China also continues to be a catalyst for insecurity in the non-traditional security realm, starting from its alleged lack of accountability regarding the COVID-19 pandemic to arming terror groups, such as in Myanmar.

Therefore, China's GSI is far from being a sustainable, equitable, and transparent solution to the growing insecurity that the world is facing, given an objective understanding of its track record in fulfilling its own principle requirements. Rather, the GSI indicates Beijing's attempt to counter U.S. leadership through narratives, regardless of whether it can effectively operationalise such initiatives on the ground.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Stop this threat

It is distressing that anti-India forces within and outside the country are working overtime to weaken India's unity and integrity. Recent events such as attacks on Indian missions should not have been allowed to take place by the respective countries. As far as the 'Khalistan movement' is concerned, India has had a very nasty experience. No country in the world should be allowed to help this movement, or for that matter any other secessionist activities. People should extend moral and material support to the Government of India.

Govardhana Myneedu,

The latest incidents involving pro-'Khalistani' supporters in the United States and the United Kingdom is a matter of concern. Rising above party lines, there needs to be close collaboration between the Centre and Punjab.

The laxity by certain western governments to stop the vandalism exposes their duplicity in their aligning with the interests of their so-called friends in the east. These countries in the West need to weed out the rabble-rousers in the Indian diaspora who appear to be challenging the law. One wonders what the reactions would have been had these elements stormed government offices and buildings in the West. Left unchecked, the West could soon be dealing with a massive headache.

On millets

Traditionally, millets are considered to be the poor man's grain. Hence, the transition has to come from the 'upper strata'. Plant breeders have to develop high-yielding, short-duration millet varieties, with improved palatability specially suited for organic farming.

A grave mistake in Great Nicobar

C.P. Rajendran

is an adjunct professor at National Institute of Advanced Studies, Bengaluru, and a director of the Consortium for Sustainable Development, Connecticut, U.S.

In unprecedented haste, the Union Ministry of Environment, Forest and Climate Change (MoEFCC) has cleared the decks for a mega project at the cost of about ₹70,000 crore at the southern tip of the Andaman and Nicobar Islands. NITI Aayog is piloting the project and the Andaman and Nicobar Islands Integrated Development Corporation is the project proponent. The 'Holistic Development of Great Nicobar Island' project aims to develop an international transhipment port of 14.2 mTEU cargo capacity at Galathea Bay along the island's south-eastern coast, an international airport to support 4,000 passengers during peak hours, a 450 MVA gas and solar-based power plant, and an ecotourism and residential township of about 160 sq km. The government hopes to establish the offices of multinational corporations by clearing about a million trees in the tropical rain forest and destroying large parts of coral reefs.

Quick clearances

The process towards implementation of this free trade zone and transhipment facility in Great Nicobar, located about 1,650 km from Chennai and 40 nautical miles from the international shipping route, started in September 2020 when the NITI Aayog issued a request for proposals for preparing the master plan for the project. In March 2021, AECOM India Private Ltd, a consulting agency, released a pre-feasibility report. The MoEFCC's Expert Appraisal Committee initiated the process of environmental clearance in April, and the project proponent contracted the Hyderabad-based Vimta Labs to prepare the environment impact assessment (EIA) report. In December 2021, the Ministry placed the draft EIA report in the public domain for comments and discussion. The quick approvals, clearances, exemptions and de-notifications show that the Union government is keen to implement this project.

The Great Nicobar Island has a population of about 8,000. Once completed, the project is expected to attract more than 3 lakh people, which is equal to the current population of the entire 1,000-km-long island chain. The ecological and environmental cost of this urbanisation project in an area known for its marine and terrestrial biodiversity appears to have been set aside without any serious consideration. Thus, it would be a misnomer to call this project as 'holistic.' Have the authorities forgotten that a financially successful transhipment hub can be sustained only with viable hinterland economic activities? Expecting that in a place like Great Nicobar is wishful thinking.

The island, which is spread over 900 sq km, was declared a biosphere reserve in 1989 and included in the UNESCO's Man and Biosphere Programme in 2013. More than three-fourth of it is designated as a tribal reserve under The Andaman and Nicobar Islands (Protection of Aboriginal Tribes) Amendment Regulation. The agenda to convert this pristine island into a commercial hub to compete with the international port in Singapore is nothing but 'ecocide'. This project will also run counter to the rights of vulnerable tribal communities, such as the Nicobarese and Shompen, who have been living in these areas for thousands of years and who depend on the forests for survival.

To recommend afforestation as a compensation for the loss of forest in the Great Nicobar Island is farcical. The EIA report says compensatory afforestation will be carried out in Haryana and Madhya Pradesh. Far-field afforestation, that too in areas that have no ecological comparison, makes no sense. The project will end up destroying vast stretches of coral reefs. The report recommends 'translocation' of these organisms which are facing an existential threat due to climate change-induced ocean warming. Transplanted corals do not have a high survival rate and are susceptible to bleaching, according to various studies.

The ecological and environmental cost of the project in an area known for its marine and terrestrial biodiversity appears to have been set aside

Tectonic instability

Further, the Great Nicobar Island is located close to the epicentre of the 2004 Indian Ocean earthquake which displaced the sea floor by 10-20m vertically as well as trillions of tonnes of undersea rock. The EIA report itself admits that "Great Nicobar lies in close proximity to the Ring of Fire and the Tsunami of 26 December 2004 is a clear demonstration of how prone it is to severe natural disasters..."

The report, however, fails to mention scientific studies during and prior to the 2004 earthquake. The coastline of the Great Nicobar Islands, which was raised earlier, sank several meters during the earthquake. Post-earthquake satellite measurements show that the island topography is slowly regaining its original height relative to the sea level. Massive earthquakes like this are inevitable in this region. The repeated up and down movement of land in response to such earthquakes makes the Great Nicobar Island unsuitable to be developed as an urban port city, but the EIA report hardly considers the tectonic instability around Great Nicobar.

On international fora, India's leaders and representatives always highlight the country's role in championing conservation, sustainability, and green development models. But our optimism is dampened by unsustainable developmental projects such as the one being formulated for Great Nicobar – projects which dilute environmental laws to ease execution. Growth in terms of GDP makes no sense if it ends up in the irretrievable loss of natural capital. It is high time that the Prime Minister's expressed vision of 'green developmental model' becomes the guiding principle for future economic activities.

Sourness in the Assembly over sweets

There is a risk that democratic policy debates are getting stifled in Gujarat

STATE OF PLAY

Mahesh Langa
mahesh.langa@thehindu.co.in

On March 10, the ongoing Budget session of the Gujarat Assembly witnessed dramatic scenes when Congress MLAs were suspended from the House for a day following their protest demanding a discussion on the change of prasad (offering) at the Ambaji temple. The decision of the temple authorities to discontinue 'mohan thal' and instead offer 'chikki' sparked a controversy in the State. The government settled the issue later saying the temple authorities will offer 'mohan thal' as prasad and 'chikki' as an option.

This was the second time that Opposition members were suspended from the House during this session of the State Assembly. On March 1, 19 legislators from the Congress and the Aam Aadmi Party were suspended from the Assembly for a day after they shouted slogans against the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) government. The Opposition MLAs were demanding a discussion then too – on the issue of a fake trainee police sub inspector found undergoing training at a State-run police training academy. When Assembly Speaker Shankar Chaudhary rejected the demand of the Congress for an urgent discussion on the issue, which the party claimed was linked to the future of the youth, 16 Congress MLAs and three AAP MLAs walked out as a mark of protest. Following this, Gujarat Legislative and Parliamentary Affairs minister Rushikesh Patel moved a motion for the suspension of the members for a day. He claimed that the Opposition

MLAs had raised placards and shouted slogans as a "preplanned" strategy. At present, the BJP enjoys a brute majority of 156 in the 182-member Assembly. In addition, three independent candidates who won elections last year also extended support to the BJP.

Suspending Opposition members during House proceedings has become a normal practice in Gujarat. Sometimes, suspensions have flouted rules. In 2018, two Congress MLAs – Pratap Dudhat and Amrish Der – were suspended for three years for allegedly attacking a BJP lawmaker with a microphone in the House, while another legislator, Baldevji Thakor, was suspended for a year for allegedly disrupting the proceedings of the House. The move was met with criticism since the Gujarat Vidhan Sabha rule book has no provisions to support such action. The suspensions were revoked days later.

Not just a few Opposition members, but nearly the whole Opposition has been suspended in the past. In 2013, when the Gujarat Lokayukta Commission Bill was passed in the Assembly, the lone warrior opposing it was Keshubhai Patel since more than 55 MLAs of the Congress had been suspended earlier. A few other Opposition MLAs were conspicuous by their absence. The Bill, which the then Governor Kamla Beniwal had returned for reconsideration after raising some objections, was naturally passed without any fracas.

Due to such frequent suspensions, critical issues concerning the public are not discussed by the lawmakers when the House is in session. It is perhaps for the first time that the Gujarat Assembly has not found a single issue worth debating under Rule 116 of the Assembly, which deals with matters of "urgent public importance," even three weeks into the Budget session.

This is the second session of the 15th Assembly after the Assembly polls were held in December 2022. The 14th Assembly held 11 sessions between January 2018 and September 2022 totalling 123 days, according to a report by the PRS Legislative Research. The report says that on average, the 14th Assembly sat for two sessions and 25 days a year. In 2000 and 2010, the average sitting days for the State Assembly was 31 days a year. In the 12th Assembly, the Assembly too sat for an average of 31 days a year.

Between Opposition members suspended and a reduced number of sitting days of the Gujarat Assembly, there is a risk that substantive, democratic policy debates are getting stifled in the State. Unless a robust bipartisan spirit reenters the Assembly debates, led by Mr. Chaudhary and the BJP majority of the House, the absence of Opposition voices raising critical questions regarding the policy agenda will be to the detriment of development, and nudge Gujarat towards a strong-arm approach to governance. Equally, the Opposition could play a more effective role in the Assembly if it prioritised policy issues rationally, such as unemployment, instead of stoking confrontation over prasad preferences.

With rising cancer cases, a larger economic burden

Most of the expense for the treatment of cancer, which is among the costliest diseases to treat, is borne by the patients

DATA POINT

Thanmaya Prakash & Vignesh Radhakrishnan

On March 14, the Minister of State for Health said cancer cases in India will cross the 15 lakh mark by 2025. A research paper published by the Indian Council of Medical Research in December last year had estimated that cancer cases are likely to increase from 14.6 lakh in 2022 to 15.7 lakh in 2025 in India. In the last decade, cancer cases have risen from around 10 lakh in 2012 to 14.6 lakh in 2022 (Chart 1).

While increasing disease burden is a concern, the economic burden is equally a worry given that cancer treatment is among the most expensive compared to other diseases. A Parliamentary Standing Committee report on cancer, released in September 2022, expressed concern about the "inaccessible and increasing cost of cancer treatment." For instance, according to the National Sample Survey (NSS) 2017-18 report, the average medical expenditure per hospitalisation case for cancer treatment was ₹68,259 in urban areas (Chart 2). The average expenditure for cardiovascular disease, the second-most expensive disease on the list, was ₹47,788. The Committee said that while anti-cancer medicine costs can be regulated, the cost of treatment also depends on other expenditure such as radiotherapy. Radiotherapy machines are not manufactured in India and are therefore expensive. It said that the cost of radiotherapy cannot be regulated as it has not been declared an essential service.

Notably, a significant share of medical costs is incurred by patients in India due to relatively poor insurance penetration. According to the NSS 2017-18 report, more than 80% of hospital bills are paid out of pocket. Chart 3 shows the average medical expenditure and average out-of-pocket expenditure per hospitalisation case as per the NSS report.

While comparison data post the implementation of Ayushman Bharat, an insurance scheme launched in 2018, are not yet available, the Committee observed that doctors' "entire prescription and latest cancer therapies were not covered in the scheme." It also said that many diagnostic tests are not covered. And given that initial investigations can be "very expensive, it leads to delay in treatment."

The Committee observed that some State-specific insurance schemes have been highly beneficial to the community at large, and suggested a convergence of State and Central schemes. Its observations are accurate as the cost of cancer treatment does vary widely across States. Chart 4 shows the State-wise average medical expenditure incurred per hospitalisation case for cancer treatment in government hospitals as per NSS 2017-18. The chart shows that expenditure was lowest in Tamil Nadu and Telangana (with less than ₹1,000 spent per case) followed closely by Andhra Pradesh. This is an outcome of existing State-specific insurance schemes. While expenditure was highest in the northern and north-eastern parts of India, the central, eastern and western States were middling.

The NSS data also show that 153 per 1 lakh people in the 45-59 age group and 300 per 1 lakh in the 60-69 age group reported hospitalisation due to cancer (Chart 5). This shows that cancer often strikes around the retirement age of an earning member, which leads to mounting debt burden.

The data also show that the average hospital stay of 14.1% of cancer patients was more than 30 days in India, while on average, only 2.3% patients stay in hospital for that long. As longer stays lead to higher bills, cancer is indeed an expensive disease to treat.

Centre not for cinema houses nationalisation

New Delhi, March 21: Mr. I.K. Gujral, Minister of State for Information and Broadcasting, made it clear in the Lok Sabha during question-time to-day that the Government's policy was not to nationalise cinema houses. Mr. Gujral, who was replying to Mr. Prabodh Chandra, said that while the Government would make some public investments in the construction of cinema houses, they would want private enterprise to invest in cinema houses. The Government had plans to establish a chain of theatres to make up the big shortage in the number of cinema houses available and the State Governments were expected to act on the recommendation of a recent conference of State Information Ministers to set apart 10 per cent for the encouragement of construction of cinema houses. After Mr. Dharam Bir Sinha, Deputy Minister of Information, had said, in reply to Dr. H.P. Sharma, that there were only 7,140 cinema houses in the country against the 26,000 required, Mr. Prabodh Chandra said people were not coming forward to construct cinema houses because threats of nationalisation were being held out often as was happening in Punjab. He wanted a categorical statement that cinema houses would not be nationalised. In reply to him as well as Mr. Jyotirmoy Basu, who had alleged that threats of nationalisation were being held out to collect money for the Congress, Mr. Gujral said he had seen reports of the Punjab Government's intention to take over cinema houses, but the State Government had not approached the Centre on this issue.

Disarmament

Leafield (Oxford) midnight, March 21: According to a telegram from Washington, Mr. Hughes, Secretary of State, announces that he has received from Great Britain an official denial of the statement which was made at Newhaven to the effect that in a considerable number of British ships bulges had increased and turrest loading arrangements been fitted, elevation of terret guns had been modified. Mr. Hughes explains that he obtained the information regarding the British ships from the United States Navy department which in its turn now accepts the statement of the British Government.

SC Bench seeks data on alternatives to hanging

"Lethal injection has not always been successful... Question is what is the best method according to science," Justice Narasimha observed.

Chief Justice Chandrachud asked Mr. Malhotra if he had gone through "startling" anecdotal research material, which shows that "heavy patients" end up "struggling" after the administration of lethal injections in the U.S.

"Now, we cannot tell the legislature that method 'A' is better than method 'B'... The burden is on the Union of India to constantly make a study," the court noted.

'Matter of legislative policy'

In 2018, the Centre filed an affidavit supporting death by hanging. It had not found the method of execution "barbaric, inhuman and cruel" compared to firing squads and lethal injections.

The government had traced statistics of "botched-up" administration of lethal injections to condemned prisoners in the United States for 110 years to prove its point that this mode of State execution was only "designed to create an appearance of serenity and painless death".

Likewise, the government had graphically detailed the horrors of death by firing squad. How, if the shots missed the heart, the prisoners slowly bled to death.

The Centre had also said the mode of execution is a "matter of legislative policy".

The government said the death penalty is awarded only in the rarest of rare cases. The court had earlier clarified that it was not questioning the constitutionality of the death penalty.

SC to examine if poll bond pleas need to be referred to Constitution Bench

Bench led by CJI D.Y. Chandrachud fixes hearing on April 11 after the petitioners urge the court to take up the case before the Karnataka Assembly election, which is set to be held in May; the petitions have been in limbo for nearly eight years

Krishnadas Rajagopal
NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court on Tuesday fixed April 11 to examine whether petitions challenging the validity of the electoral bonds scheme need to be referred to a Constitution Bench.

A Bench led by Chief Justice D.Y. Chandrachud was urged by senior advocate Dushyant Dave, advocates Prashant Bhushan, Shadan Farasat and Neha Rathi, all for the petitioners, to advance the next date from May 2 to April 11.

Mr. Dave said the court should take up the case before the Karnataka Assembly election, which is scheduled to be held in May.

Mr. Farasat argued that the issue of election bonds raised cardinal and substantial questions of law affecting fair elections which are essential to democracy and need to be heard by a Bench of at least five Supreme Court judges.

> The amendments have removed the caps on campaign donations by companies and have legalised anonymous donations. The Finance Act of 2017 has introduced the use of electoral bonds... opening doors to unchecked funding to political parties
> PRASHANT BHUSHAN
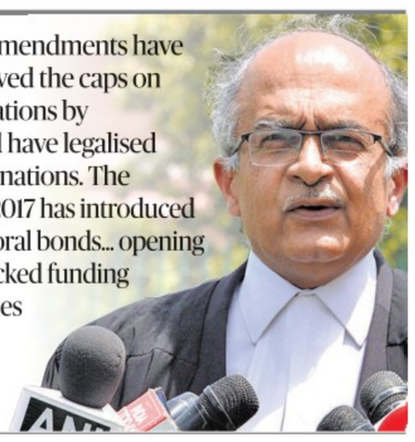
> Advocate



The petitions, which have been in limbo for about eight years, allege that the scheme has opened the doors for anonymous donations to political parties days before polls are due.

Mr. Bhushan, appearing for petitioner NGO Association for Democratic Reforms, has argued that the amendments made through the Finance Acts of 2016 and 2017, both passed as Money Bills, have through the electoral bonds scheme, "opened the floodgates to unlimited political donations".

"The amendments have removed the caps on campaign donations by companies and have legalised anonymous donations. The Finance Act of 2017 has introduced the use of electoral bonds which are exempt from disclosure under the Representation of Peoples Act, 1951, opening doors to unchecked, unknown funding to political parties," Mr. Bhushan argued.

The Finance Act, 2016 has also amended the Foreign Contribution Regulation Act (FCRA), 2010, to allow foreign companies with subsidiaries in India to fund political parties in India, effectively, exposing Indian politics and democracy to international lobbyists, the petitioners have contended.

Response received from the Department of Economic Affairs (DEA) on January 27 to a Right to Information (RTI) application filed by Commodore Lokesh Batra (retd) showed that electoral bonds were sold from March 2018 to December 2022 in 24 phases at a total cost of ₹10.23 crore to the taxpayer.

The expenses include ₹8.33 crore in bank commission and ₹1.90 crore in printing charges. While ₹6.74 lakh electoral bonds were printed, bonds worth ₹11,699.84 crore were sold, the RTI response showed.

This petition has sought the quashing of the November 7, 2022 notification issued by the Finance Ministry amending the electoral bonds scheme.

"An additional period of 15 days shall be specified by the Central government in the year of general elections to the Legislative Assembly of States and Union Territories with the legislature," the gazette notification said.

Earlier, a 30-day extra period for sale was allowed only in the Lok Sabha election year.

Trinamool, AAP, BRS to fight 'misuse' of CBI, ED

The Hindu Bureau
NEW DELHI

The Aam Aadmi Party (AAP), the Trinamool Congress and the Bharat Rashtra Samithi (BRS) are working closely together to stitch a non-BJP, non-Congress alliance, and as part of its first step, the parties are proposing to file petitions in courts against the misuse of investigating agencies like the CBI and Enforcement Directorate, sources said.

Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal had reportedly written a letter to the Chief Ministers of West Bengal, Jharkhand, Tamil Nadu, Kerala, Bihar and Punjab and invited them for a dinner meeting in Delhi on March 18 and proposed to launch the "progressive Chief Minister's group of India". The event however did not take place.

There is also no clarity whether all parties concerned agreed to the proposition.

IMF clears $3-billion bailout for Sri Lanka

The loan comes a year after Sri Lanka defaulted on its foreign debt. Sri Lanka is "no longer a bankrupt country", President Ranil Wickremesinghe said in a televised address on Tuesday, adding that the IMF programme would "serve as an assurance to the international community that Sri Lanka has the capacity to service its debt".

The IMF package enables Sri Lanka "to access up to $7 billion in funding from IMF & IFIs [International Financial Institutions]", he noted, while thanking Sri Lanka's partners.

India, Japan [as a member of the Paris Club group of creditors], and China – Sri Lanka's top three bilateral creditors – played a crucial role in unlocking the IMF assistance to the island, by providing financing assurances to the Fund.

In an open letter to bilateral creditors last week, Mr. Wickremesinghe promised that Sri Lanka would be transparent in the debt restructuring process.

Meanwhile, in anticipation of the Fund's assistance, Sri Lanka took a host of policy measures over the last year, including sharply increasing banking interest rates, floating the rupee, raising taxes, and increasing energy tariffs three-fold.

Reeling under high costs of living – and soaring electricity bills now adding to their burden – worker unions across sectors went on a strike recently, protesting economic hardships.

Asked about the IMF's engagement with the Sri Lankan government amid concern over the space for dissent, Peter Breuer, Senior Mission Chief for Sri Lanka, Asia and Pacific Department of the IMF, told a media conference on Tuesday that the IMF's ambit was "limited" to economic affairs, and the Fund did not have a mandate to interfere with how the government interacts with its citizens.

Amid ruckus, Lok Sabha passes J&K Budget

The Hindu Bureau
NEW DELHI

The Lok Sabha on Tuesday passed the demands for the Jammu and Kashmir (J&K) Budget and the second batch of Supplementary Demands, or Appropriation Bill (No. 2), 2023, without any discussion as sloganeering by the Treasury and Opposition benches disrupted normal functioning of the House.

In the Rajya Sabha too, Leader of the Opposition Mallikarjun Kharge couldn't speak as the ruling party members insisted on an apology from Congress leader Rahul Gandhi for his "democracy under attack" remark.

Stepping up their outcry, the Opposition members protested on the first floor of Parliament and hung a large banner that read "We want JPC" (Joint Parliamentary Committee), demanding probe into the Adani Group issue.

Attempts by Presiding Officers to break Parliament deadlock fail to yield result

The Hindu Bureau
NEW DELHI

Attempts by the Presiding Officers of both Houses of Parliament to break the deadlock between the Treasury and Opposition benches did not succeed on Tuesday, leading to speculation that the Budget Session could be truncated ahead of its April 6 schedule.

At a meeting of floor leaders of the Lok Sabha, Speaker Om Birla asked both sides to let go off the contentious issues – the Bharatiya Janata Party's (BJP) insistence on an apology from Congress leader Rahul Gandhi for his alleged "anti-India" remarks and the Opposition's demand for a Joint Parliamentary Committee (JPC) probe into the Adani-Hindenburg episode.

Sources claimed that the government, represented by Commerce Minister Piyush Goyal and Parliamentary Affairs Minister Pralhad Joshi, was ready to set aside its demand to let the House run for essential financial business that is pending.

Congress leader in the Lok Sabha Adhir Ranjan Chowdhury, however, insisted that Mr. Gandhi be given the right to respond to the allegations made against him by senior Ministers, including Mr. Goyal, Mr. Joshi and Defence Minister Rajnath Singh.

He argued that their allegations were now part of the Parliament record and that's why Mr. Gandhi must get the right to respond. He, however, didn't give any give any assurance on behalf of the Congress and blamed the BJP members for disrupting the House.

Shifting blame

Trinamool Congress Saugata Roy, however, blamed both the BJP and the Congress for not allowing the Parliament to function. Rajya Sabha Chairman Jagdeep Dhankhar called two meetings of the floor leaders of different political parties in the Upper House but majority of the Opposition parties boycotted them as earlier Leader of the Opposition (LoP) Malikarjun Kharge couldn't speak on the floor of the House because of protests from the BJP benches.

Questioning Leader of the House Piyush Goyal's statement that the Opposition had insulted the Chairman by boycotting his meeting, senior Congress member Jairam Ramesh said such a statement came from the leader a party whose members prevented Mr. Kharge from speakingeven after the Chairman had permitted him.

"Silencing of LoP is also an issue quite apart from the JPC on Adani," Mr. Ramesh said.

The Rajya Sabha Secretariat said in a release that the Chairman underlined that it was the prime duty of the members to run the proceedings of the House in an orderly manner.

Mr. Dhankhar has scheduled the next meeting at 10 a.m. on March 23.

NIA arrests J&K journalist in terror funding case

The Hindu Bureau
SRINAGAR

The National Investigation Agency (NIA) on Monday arrested a journalist in Srinagar for allegedly propagating a secessionist agenda under the garb of protecting human rights.

Irfan Mehraj worked for the online portal TwoCircles.net, which focuses on news about marginalised communities, and also edited the online Wande Magazine. The NIA said his arrest followed a comprehensive investigation into a non-governmental organisation's terror funding case, registered in 2020.

The Press Club of India on Tuesday condemned the arrest. "The misuse of this draconian law [UAPA] by the NIA in randomly arresting Mehraj ominously points towards a violation of freedom of speech and expression. We demand his immediate release," a PCI spokesman said.

'Some States lagging behind on NPS dues'

"Some of the States have followed or have indicated a decision to follow a system of pay-as-you-go with defined benefits," Mr. Karad said, referring to States that have opted for, or are swaying towards the reintroduction of the Old Pension Scheme (OPS) that provided guaranteed retirement incomes.

Low inflows

Although the Ministry did not name the States failing to pay their NPS dues, data on States' contributions over the last five years into what is now referred to as the National Pension System suggests unusually low inflows from a few States in comparison to others.

While it cannot be ascertained if their lower contributions are driven by fewer employees being recruited since 2004, West Bengal and Tamil Nadu have contributed just ₹44.7 crore and ₹42.1 crore respectively into the NPS between April 2018 and February 2023.

By contrast, over the same period, Karnataka remitted ₹13,813 crore, Haryana about ₹9,800 crore, and even smaller states like Bihar and Uttarakhand contributed an average ₹2,000 crore and ₹1,000 crore a year, respectively.

Rajasthan, Chhattisgarh, Jharkhand, Punjab, and Himachal Pradesh have informed the Pension Fund Regulatory and Development Authority about their decision to restart the OPS for their State employees and have requested a refund of the corpus accumulated under NPS. Mr. Karad, however, pointed out that there are no provisions in place that allow the accumulated NPS corpus of its members to be "refunded and deposited back" to the State government.

West Bengal CM Mamata to stage dharna against Centre for depriving State of funds

Sobhana K. Nair
Shiv Sahay Singh
NEW DELHI/KOLKATA

Accusing the Union government of "deliberately depriving" West Bengal of funds under the Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Scheme (MGNREGS) and other Centrally sponsored schemes, West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Tuesday announced that she would sit on a dharna on March 29 and 30.

"In this Budget also, there was no allocation for 100-day work (MGNREGS) in the State. West Bengal is the only State where nothing has been given. There is no money for housing. They have not given us pending funds. For 55 lakh houses, funds are pending, we are completing 11 lakhs [houses]," she told reporters.

Mamata Banerjee

The remarks come a day after The Hindu reported that the Union Rural Development Ministry had decided to withhold the MGNREGS funds for West Bengal for the financial year 2023-24 too. The Centre stopped the funds invoking Section 27 of MGNREG Act for alleged widespread corruption in the implementation of the scheme since December 2021.

The Chief Minister said that she had raised the issue of pending funds relating to the MGNREGS, housing and rural roads with Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Union Home Minister Amit Shah.

Ms. Banerjee said that funds of the tune of ₹1.15 lakh crore for West Bengal was pending with the Centre. She also accused the Centre of sending Central teams to the State at the behest of the State BJP leadership. The Centre at present owes ₹7,500 crore to the State out of which labour wages alone amount to ₹2,744 crore.

CPI(M) State secretary Mohammed Salim accused both the Centre and the Trinamool Congress government in the State for misleading the people. "We demand a White Paper from both on the issue. People have the right to know the reality beyond the mutual mudslinging. Moreover, the poor workers have the right to receive their long-standing dues," he said.

Delhi Budget to be tabled today after Centre's nod

The Hindu Bureau
NEW DELHI

The Delhi government will present the 2023-24 Budget on Wednesday after getting the go-ahead from the Union Home Ministry, Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal said on Tuesday.

He had earlier accused the Centre of "hooliganism" for preventing the Delhi government from tabling the Budget as per schedule on Tuesday. Responding to the allegation, the Ministry said it hadn't received a response to a letter sent to Delhi Chief Secretary, asking the government to address some concerns raised by the Lieutenant-Governor.

On Tuesday, the Delhi Assembly passed a resolution seeking an investigation by its Committee of Privileges into the role of the Chief Secretary, Principal Secretary (Finance), and others in delaying the Budget presentation.

Rahul is 'present-day Mir Jafar', says BJP

The Hindu Bureau
NEW DELHI

The BJP on Tuesday stepped up its attack on Congress leader Rahul Gandhi by calling him the "present-day Mir Jafar" who sought help from abroad to fight political battles in India.

At a press conference, party spokesperson Sambit Patra said: "It would not be an aberration to say that Rahul Gandhi is the present-day Mir Jafar of Indian polity. What he has done in London is the same thing that Mir Jafar did." Mir Zafar betrayed Nawab of Bengal Siraj ud-Daulah during the Battle of Plassey against the East India Company in 1757. He was then installed as the ruler of Bengal and, in turn, granted major concessions to the British for trade.

"Rahul Gandhi did the same thing during his visit to London. He invited foreign forces to come to India. Shehzada (princeling) wants to become a Nawab. Shehzada has sought help from the East India Company to become a Nawab."

Internet restored in most parts of Punjab

Aroon Deep
PATIALA

The Punjab government lifted the mobile internet shutdown imposed in the State on Tuesday afternoon, even as police continue to pursue pro-Khalistani preacher Amritpal Singh. Telecom operators reinstated internet connectivity to their subscribers over an hour after the suspension order extending restrictions had elapsed. This was India's 700th recorded internet shutdown, according to the Software Freedom Law Center (SFLC)'s Internet Shutdowns Tracker.

Restrictions will remain in place, however, in the districts of Tarn Taran, Ferozepur, and Sangrur; as well as in Amritsar's Ajnala Sub-Division and in the areas adjoining YPS Chowk and the Airport Road in the Mohali district, according to an order by Punjab's Home Department.

Due to the mobile internet shutdown, businesses faced difficulties in accepting digital payments, which hit their income over the weekend. "This is an industrial area with a lot of bulk cash transactions, so ATMs ran dry quickly," said Sanju, a shopkeeper in Shambhoo Khurd district. So though ATMs were working, he said, people who usually paid digitally couldn't withdraw cash or pay. Residents were seen outdoors checking for connectivity shortly after the lapsing of the order.

Amritpal changed clothes, fled on motorbike with associates: police

Provisions of the National Security Act invoked against Waris Punjab De chief and a non-bailable arrest warrant issued; police have arrested four persons in the case and seized a getaway car, a walkie-talkie set, a rifle and some swords

The Hindu Bureau
NEW DELHI

The Punjab Police have invoked the National Security Act (NSA) provisions against pro-Khalistan radical preacher Amritpal Singh, who still remains at large. The number of arrests made during the ongoing operation now stands at 154.

Inspector-General of Punjab Police (Headquarters) Sukhchain Singh Gill on Tuesday said that four persons, identified as Manpreet Singh, Gurdeep Singh, Harpreet Singh and Gurpesh Singh, were arrested following the seizure of Mr. Singh's getaway car. One .315 rifle, a walkie-talkie set and some swords were also found.

Investigations have revealed that while being chased, Mr. Singh had gone to a "gurdwara" where he changed his clothes, wore a shirt and pair of trousers, and then went to a place from where he along with three of his associates drove away on two motorcycles. It is suspected that he has changed his appearance to evade identification. Under the NSA, a non-bailable arrest warrant has been issued against the Waris Punjab De (WPD) chief.

Two more alleged WPD activists, Kulwant Singh Dhaliwal and Gurinder Pal Singh, have been sent to Dibrugarh jail in Assam, where five others are already lodged. Among them is Mr. Singh's uncle Harjit Singh, against whom a separate case has been registered by the police on a complaint that he and Harpreet had forced a village "sarpanch" at gunpoint to provide him shelter.

Stating that no untoward incident had taken place, Punjab Chief Minister Bhagwant Mann on Tuesday said stern action would be taken against those attempting to create any trouble. "We are a 100% secular party, we don't do politics in the name of religion and caste... I want to assure the people of Punjab that every drop of my blood is there for Punjab...," he said in tweet. Mr. Mann said the police had acted against those who at the behest of foreign powers were indulging in hate speech. Stringent punishment would be meted out to them, he added. The operation against the WPD was launched on March 18.

NIA files chargesheet against 12 in gangster-terror nexus case

Devesh K. Pandey
NEW DELHI

The National Investigation Agency (NIA) has filed a chargesheet against 12 persons allegedly found to have links with pro-Khalistan outfits and Pakistan-based conspirators.

The chargesheet has been submitted in one of the three "terror-gangster nexus" cases being probed by the NIA. "Ten other persons are still under investigation in the terror conspiracy, which included plans to eliminate certain leaders to terrorise people, extort money from them and create a sensation," it said on Tuesday.

The NIA said the chargesheeted accused had links with the Khalistan Tiger Force, a proscribed organisation, and its operative Arshdeep Singh Gill, a declared "individual terrorist" under the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act.

The accused were raising funds to carry out targeted killings and other terror activities, "as part of a deep-rooted conspiracy among terrorists, gangsters and drug smugglers". They have been identified as Arsh Dala, Gaurav Patyal, Sukhpreet Buddha, Kaushal Choudhary, Amit Dagar, Naveen Bali, Chhotu Bhat, Asif Khan, Jagga Takhatmal, Tillu Tajpuria, Bhupi Rana and Sandeep Bandar.

HC quizzes Punjab govt. on 'intelligence failure'

Press Trust of India
CHANDIGARH

The Punjab and Haryana High Court on Tuesday questioned the Punjab government on how pro-Khalistan preacher Amritpal Singh gave police the slip.

Justice N.S. Shekhawat asked Punjab Advocate General Vinod Ghai how the slip could have happened when the whole operation was meticulously planned, and called it an intelligence failure, a lawyer said. The court was hearing the habeas corpus petition filed by advocate Imaan Singh Khara, seeking the "release" of Amritpal Singh from alleged police custody. The Punjab Police have said the Khalistan sympathiser is still on the run after escaping their dragnet.

The Punjab AG said the police was fully armed but exercised restraint as the operation occurred at a public place.

Omnibus approach may not work for legislators' trials: SC

The Hindu Bureau
NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court on Tuesday suggested a State-specific approach to setting up special courts for speedy trial of legislators even as its own amicus curiae flagged that criminal cases against lawmaker-shave leaped over the 5,000-mark, with 400 of them concerning heinous offences. A Bench of Chief Justice of India (CJI) D.Y. Chandrachud and Justice P.S. Narasimha indicated that a "one-size-fits-all" approach may not resolve the problem of long pendency of criminal cases involving MPs and MLAs.

"The solution will be different in each State... We will ask the High Courts what arrangements can be made... We have to know the details of the number of cases, judges," Justice Narasimha observed.

Dozen courts

In November 2017, the apex court had directed the setting up of special courts to exclusively try legislators within a deadline of one year. A dozen courts were set up for this purpose. On Tuesday, a lawyer told the Bench that all 12 courts were clogged with cases which had not moved an inch all these years. Amicus curiae, senior advocate Vijay Hansaria said the number of pending cases had jumped from 4,112 to 5,112, according to reports submitted by various State High Courts to him. "Lawbreakers cannot be lawmakers," Mr. Hansaria submitted.

"But the load is different for each judge in each State. Your own report shows that a judge in Karnataka handles anything between 13 to 196 cases, in Odisha it is zero to 30 and zero to two in Haryana... We have to look at the infrastructure and judicial space in each State before earmarking cases to judges," the Chief Justice addressed Mr. Hansaria.

The court is also considering a plea for lifetime ban on people convicted of offences from contesting elections and becoming Members of Parliament and State Legislative Assemblies.

The Centre had, in an affidavit filed in 2020, maintained in court that disqualification under the Representation of the People Act of 1951 for the period of prison sentence and six years thereafter was enough for legislators.

Mr. Hansaria, however, said a convicted MP or MLA could come back after the six-year ban and make laws.

CBI explores options to restore Interpol notice against Choksi

Devesh K. Pandey
Kallol Bhattacherjee
NEW DELHI

The Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) on Tuesday said that it had taken up, with the Commission for Control of Interpol's Files (CCF), the serious shortcomings and mistakes committed in reaching the "unfounded and perfunctory" decision to remove the Red Notice against fugitive Mehul Choksi. It has initiated measures to get the Interpol notice restored.

The CCF is a separate body within Interpol that is not under the control of the Interpol Secretariat.

The CBI said that the fugitive had earlier approached the CCF twice: the first time in 2018 to prevent issuance of the notice, and the second time in 2019 to get it removed from the Interpol website. However, his representations were rejected. The third time was in July 2022, when facing the possibility of extradition from Antigua and Barbuda.

Mehul Choksi

'Compelling evidence'

The removal of his name from the Interpol's Red Corner Notice list "strengthens" the argument that India tried to "kidnap" fugitive diamantaire Mehul Choksi, a spokesperson has said on his behalf. In an e-mail statement to The Hindu, the spokesperson alleged that the Government of India had attempted take Mr. Choksi illegally and that the court had received compelling evidence in this regard.

"The report from the Antiguan police, and the evidence adduced by Mr. Choksi in the ongoing High Court proceedings in Antigua, point to an alarming case of state orchestrated kidnap, torture and attempted rendition by the Indian government. The decision of Interpol to delete the Red Notice strengthens these concerns," the spokesperson said. The attempt to render Mr. Choksi to India is in breach of international rule of law, the statement said.

Propelled by three diesel-driven water jets, these ships can attain a maximum speed of 25 knots. "These ships are also capable of full-scale sub surface surveillance of coastal waters and various surface platforms and coordinated ASW operations with aircraft," a statement said.

SC refuses to intervene in plea over demonetised notes

The Supreme Court on Tuesday refused to intervene on behalf of individuals who could not exchange their demonetised currency for valid bank notes in 2016. Two months after a Constitution Bench delivered a majority verdict upholding the government's demonetisation policy, the court said it cannot flex its extraordinary powers under Article 142 of the Constitution to help persons who missed the opportunity to trade their demonetised ₹500 and ₹1000 bills for the new bank notes. The court, however, observed that the grievances may be genuine and directed the aggrieved petitioners to approach the Centre for reprieve.

Threat call: security tightened at Gadkari's office, residence

The Nagpur Police on Tuesday said that three threat calls were made to Union Minister Nitin Gadkari's office, following which security has been beefed up at the senior BJP leader's residence and office in the city. The caller, who identified himself as Jayesh Pujari, aka Jayesh Kantha, threatened to harm Mr. Gadkari if ₹10 crore was not paid to him. The police said that on January 14, a man claiming to be a member of Dawood Ibrahim's gang had made threatening calls to the Union Minister's office, demanding ₹100 crore. A case was registered and a probe has been launched.

Mamata to meet JD(S) leader Kumaraswamy on Friday

West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee will on Friday meet former Karnataka Chief Minister and Janata Dal (S) leader H.D. Kumaraswamy in Kolkata. This is likely to be Ms. Banerjee's third meeting with a key leader of a non-Congress Opposition party in less than a week. These meetings assume significance amidst efforts by the Trinamool Congress and the Bharat Rashtra Samithi to stitch together a third Opposition front. On March 17, Ms. Banerjee met with Samajwadi Party president Akhilesh Yadav and on Tuesday she left for Odisha to meet Chief Minister Naveen Patnaik. The meeting between Mr. Kumaraswamy and Ms. Banerjee comes months before the Karnataka Assembly elections.

Why couples want recognition for same-sex marriage

Sreeparna Chakrabarty
NEW DELHI

Last week, Deepak Sharma was rushed to a hospital in Bengaluru for an emergency surgery. There, writhing in pain, he signed his own documents, as his partner of 13 years, Ankur Bhatnagar, stood by helplessly. Hospital authorities insisted that only "family" could sign the documents and not "friends", Mr. Bhatnagar said.

"Our partners do not exist for the system," Mr. Sharma said.

India decriminalised homosexuality in 2018, while in 2017 the Supreme Court had recognised sexual orientation as protected under right to privacy. However, because financial and social security benefits are only accorded to those who have the legal sanction of a marriage, same-sex couples have trouble accessing some basic relationship rights. Whether it is buying a house together, securing medical insurance, having a joint bank account, ensuring inheritance, or even on visa applications, there is no recognition of same-sex partners.

Fight for equality: A five-judge Bench of the Supreme Court will start hearing petitions on the issue on April 18. ISTOCKPHOTO

Legal rights

Social worker Koel Ghosh, who lives with her partner Ankana Dey in her ancestral house in Kolkata, is petrified that if something happens to her, her family may throw Ms. Dey out from the house as she has no legal right over the property despite having spent an equal amount of money on its upkeep.

The couple are one of the petitioners in the Supreme Court in the same-sex marriage case, and want to take their life forward as a couple recognised by the State.

Mumbai-based IT professional Inder Vhatwar and his partner of 11 years, Ashish Srivastava, bought a house together just before the pandemic. They had to rope in Mr. Vhatwar's brother as a co-applicant for the loan. "So, though in reality, it is Ashish who has paid for half the property, if something happens to me, then it will be my brother who will get to inherit the house. How fair is that?" Mr. Vhatwar asked.

Accessing each other's Provident Fund, medical insurance or any kind of joint social security options are out of bounds for these couples without the 'stamp' of marriage.

Financial matters

Things get more complicated when one partner is financially dependent on the other. Bengaluru-based Sindhur Kashyap's partner Spoorthy G., is eight years younger, was a student and 19 years old when they started living together. Since her parents objected to the relationship, she had no security net.

It is the dependence on the natal or birth families for accessing resources which puts a lot of LGBTQ people at risk of physical violence. Legal recognition for same-sex unions would mean that a couple can access police and legal protection.

Adoption, surrogacy, or even IVF for lesbian couples is almost impossible legally, with one person having to bear the full legal responsibility.

There is also a question mark on the fate of children adopted in case the couple decides to part ways after some years, as in the absence of joint custody, only one would be left responsible for the upbringing of the child. Mr. Sharma and Mr. Bhatnagar, who have explored all avenues for having a child over the last decade, are waiting with high expectations for the Supreme Court to start hearing the petitions on April 18.

Parliamentary panel pulls up Railways over losses incurred

Loss of ₹15,024 crore recorded in FY22 ; Rise in staff cost after 7th Pay Commission and pandemic impact cited as reasons for net revenue fall

Maitri Porecha
NEW DELHI

A drastic fall in the net revenue of the Indian Railways has left the Parliamentary Standing Committee on Railways perturbed. Net revenue is essentially the excess of the Railways' receipts over expenditure or its 'profits'. In FY2021-22, the Railways recorded a negative net revenue or loss of ₹15,024.58 crore.

The committee has recommended that Railways should institute remedial measures to plug leakages and reverse trend. FILE PHOTO

In the Demands for Grants Report, the committee has observed that the Railways' net revenues is witnessing a downward trend, except in 2014-15, when it witnessed an increase of 8.20%.

"During the last five years, with effect from 2018-19 onwards, the revised estimates (RE) were reduced to more than 50% and the actuals were far behind from RE in all these years," the panel noted.

The Railways noted that it recorded a loss due to a sharp rise in staff cost following the implementation of the 7th Central Pay Commission in 2016-17 and 2017-18, and the adverse impact of the pandemic from 2019-20 to 2021-22.

The committee pulled up the Railways, stating that the persistent decline in internal resource generation is an indicator of internal deficiencies in the overall planning and management of the Railways.

"The committee are perturbed to note that despite enhanced budgetary support and extra budgetary resources, Railways have not been able to generate sufficient fund internally," it said.

Generating revenue

The Railways has planned to reverse this and set a net revenue target of ₹2,393 crore for FY23.

The committee has recommended the Ministry of Railways should institute remedial measures to plug leakages and stem the trend of declining net revenue, and find ways and means to generate and augment Railways' revenues.

The committee has stressed that Railways should explore other non-fare revenues like advertisements or hoardings, monetisation of surplus railway land, and setting up ATMs at stations.

Another determinant of the Railways' financial health is the operating ratio – an indication of how much the Railways spends to earn one rupee. The committee has noted that the operating ratio of the Railways has been persistently high. The operating ratio touched 107.39%, the highest ever, in 2021-22.

The Railways has said that it was aiming at a target operating ratio of 98.22% in FY23.

House panel seeks data on heart attack deaths post COVID

Bindu Shajan Perappadan
NEW DELHI

In an attempt to understand the rise of myocardial infarctions (heart attacks) in seemingly fit people following the COVID-19 pandemic, the Parliamentary Standing Committee on Health and Family Welfare has asked the Indian Council of Medical Research "to give evidence-based clarification based on the findings of its planned studies on this".

"Currently, there is insufficient evidence/data to prove whether rise of myocardial infarctions and sudden deaths have been due to COVID-19 vaccines – but these cases of sudden deaths due to myocardial infarctions have increased post COVID," it said.

The committee has also raised serious objections to the inability of the country to retain its scientists for research and grossly insufficient public investment in health research.

The panel notes that ICMR spent around ₹1,300 crore for research purposes in FY 2022-23. "Considering India is facing multiple challenges on health front like rise in communicable diseases, non-communicable diseases like hypertension, cancer and severe malnutrition, anaemia in various pockets of the country, there is urgent need for ICMR to spend much more than ₹1,300 crore on research," it said.

Caste data from 2011 'technically flawed': govt.

The Hindu Bureau
NEW DELHI

The Union government on Tuesday reiterated its position that the caste data collected in the Socio-Economic Caste Census (SECC) of 2011 is "technically flawed" and hence has not been made official for any purpose.

The reply was tabled in response to a question from Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam (DMK) MP P. Velusamy, by the Ministry of Social Justice and Empowerment in the Lok Sabha.

Even as the Opposition parties continue to press for the data to be made public and for the Centre to conduct a fresh census, some States have conducted their own caste surveys.

Academics raise concern over query in RS on 'Pakistani author'

The Hindu Bureau
NEW DELHI

About 250 academics and teachers, including historian Romila Thapar, have expressed concern over a letter sent by the UGC to Registrars of all Central Universities on March 16 regarding a question asked in Parliament.

The question from the Rajya Sabha to the Centre asked whether the latter had taken cognisance of the fact that a book by a Pakistani author was being taught at Aligarh Muslim University, Jamia Millia Islamia and other educational institutions. The question also wanted to know whether the language was derogatory to Indian citizens and also if it supported terrorism.

"While it appears that a specific book by a specific author is the subject of the question, neither the author nor the book is named. For leaving the book unnamed allows the question to be read as suggesting that any book by any Pakistani author that might possibly be read as being 'derogatory to Indian citizens' and 'supporting terrorism' must not be taught in any Indian university; that teaching any such book will result in punitive action," a statement said.

Qualities of Supreme One

Vedanta Desika's given name was Venkatanatha. But he is reverentially referred to as Vedantacharya, because he presented Vedantic truths in Sanskrit, Tamil and Manipravala, explaining difficult concepts for the layman, said T.N. Aravamudachariar, in a discourse. His work Mei Viratha Manmiyam is a work in praise of Lord Varadaraja of Kanchi. In this work, he narrates the history of the Varadaraja temple; he describes the Lord's handsome looks, and the glory of Hastigiri, the hill which is His abode. He also speaks of the auspicious qualities of the Supreme One given in Brahma Sutra. Varadaraja is that Supreme Brahman in archa form.

In Mei Viratha Manmiyam, Desika says that Brahman is the cause of the existence of everything in the world. He has as His body all sentient and non-sentient entities, and yet remains untainted by their doshas. He is like a supporting wall for bhaktas and for nityasuris. The Lord bears the world like a load bearing wall. Desika establishes beyond doubt that the world is not sustained by achetanas, but by the Lord. He demolishes the arguments of those who debate on the basis of a type of disputation known as jalpa. He makes the world aware of the greatness of the Pancharatra Agamas. He proves that the Lord created the Panchabhutas and the indriyas based on them. The Lord is responsible for the origin of the karmendriyas, jnanendriyas and manas. He is inside all chetanas and achetanas. The Lord's qualities become evident to those steeped in bhakti. He reveals His qualities to those who do their duties, but are unattached to the fruits of their actions. He cuts off the binding chains of punya and paapa.

Xi hails 'great neighbouring powers', vows to strengthen ties with Russia

Putin calls the talks 'meaningful and frank' and says Moscow, which has been largely cut out of European markets because of sanctions, would be able to meet China's 'growing demand' for energy; neither leader make any mention of Ukraine

Agence France-Presse
MOSCOW

Xi Jinping promised to strengthen coordination with Russia at a Kremlin summit with President Vladimir Putin on the Chinese leader's first visit to Moscow since the beginning of Russia's assault on Ukraine.

Both nations seek allies to counteract Western power and the two are expected to sign a raft of economic cooperation agreements.

Mr. Putin called the talks "meaningful and frank" and said Russia, which has been largely cut out of European markets because of sanctions, would be able to meet China's "growing demand" for energy.

"I propose strengthening our coordination and cooperation," Mr. Xi said between two rounds of talks in the Kremlin in footage shown on Russian state television.

Mr. Putin said he was "convinced that our multilevel mutually beneficial cooperation will strengthen further".

Neither leader made any mention of the conflict in Ukraine, although the Kremlin said they would discuss China's proposal to stop the fighting.

The Chinese leader's Moscow visit has been viewed as a boost for Mr. Putin, who is subject to an International Criminal Court warrant over accusations of unlawfully deporting Ukrainian children.

Mr. Xi earlier met with Prime Minister Mikhail Mishustin and hailed Russia and China as "great neighbouring powers" on the second day of his visit to Russia.

Beijing and Moscow's trade ties have boomed since Russia's Ukraine offensive, linking the nations more closely and raising worries in the West over how far the ties will go.

On Monday, Mr. Xi and Mr. Putin held four-and-a-half hours of talks, calling each other "dear friend."

In a rare move, Mr. Putin escorted Mr. Xi to his car after the talks, and the two were seen smiling together.

During the meeting on Monday, the Russian leader said he was open to talks on Ukraine and praised Beijing's 12-point position paper on the conflict, which includes a call for dialogue and respect for all countries' territorial sovereignty.

Diaspora gathers outside Indian High Commission

Sriram Lakshman
LONDON

Members of the Indian diaspora in the U.K. gathered outside the Indian High Commission in London for a demonstration of solidarity, in response to Khalistani protesters taking down the Indian flag from the building.

The Federation of Sikh Organisations and other groups announced that they would protest "discriminatory actions of the Indian Police in Panjab" on Wednesday, outside the Indian High Commission. Internet services had been suspended in Punjab in recent days as security forces searched for pro-Khalistan preacher Amritpal Singh, and his supporters.

A constable outside the High Commission told The Hindu, on Tuesday, that adequate "resources [would be] invested in ensuring nothing untoward happens" during Wednesday's protest.

Members of the Indian diaspora gathered outside the Indian High Commission in London.

"Well done police," Pravin Patel, who is one of the heads of an advocacy group, the Sardar Patel Memorial Society, shouted from the High Commission balcony. Some seven police officers stood between the High Commission's supporters and the road.

Some of those who had gathered were less appreciative of the security forces. Sukant Sahu, from Odisha, said the Indian community was "really upset" at the " incapability" of the 'Met' [Metropolitan Police]. "Why is it so? We are in a developed country, every building or mission should be protected," Mr. Sahu said. Mr. Patel said that he and others were at the High Commission on Monday "to discuss what action to take" with India's High Commissioner to the U.K., Vikram Doraiswami.

Speaking to The Hindu, Mr. Patel was keen to draw a distinction between the protesters on Sunday and adherents of the Sikh faith. "I do not believe these were Khalistani Sikhs. These were marauders... goons who carried out this nonsensical act," he said.

Confronting an intensifying rivalry with the U.S., Xi is turning to old allies

NEWS ANALYSIS

Ananth Krishnan
BEIJING

Arriving in Moscow on Monday on a visit laden with symbolism – the first of his third term as Chinese President – Xi Jinping hailed the China-Russia relationship as "a new model of major country relations".

"China and Russia are committed," Mr. Xi wrote in an article in the Russian Gazette published on the day of his arrival, "to no-alliance, no-confrontation and not targeting any third party in developing our ties. We firmly support each other in following a development path suited to our respective national realities and support each other's development and rejuvenation.

Mr. Xi's visit to Russia this week has underlined not just the growing closeness of a relationship described by both sides as having "no limits" and being "the closest in any period in history", but the emerging contours of what is likely to be the focus of the Xi foreign policy in his precedent-defying third five-year term.

Xi Jinping

If the last three years of Mr. Xi's second term hit the pause button on Chinese diplomacy largely due to the isolation fuelled by his "zero-COVID" regime, Beijing has now launched a new diplomatic push with the start of the new term, which has coincided with the reopening of China's borders.

'Severe challenges'

Confronting an intensifying rivalry with the U.S. – the abiding current focus for Mr. Xi, who in this month's annual National People's Congress, in a departure from the past, singled out the U.S. by name accusing it of "containing and suppressing" China leading to "severe challenges" – Mr. Xi is turning to old allies, from Russia and Pakistan to China's Central Asian neighbours.

Two key showpiece diplomatic events have been lined up for 2023 – a summit to be hosted by Mr. Xi with leaders of Central Asian countries, as well as the third Belt and Road Forum, which is likely to feature several leaders from South and Southeast Asia. Mr. Xi is doubling down on Chinese allies regardless of challenges in relations with them, from the Ukraine crisis for Russia to continuing political and economic instability in Pakistan.

One of the first foreign officials hosted in Beijing, days after the NPC, was Pakistan's Foreign Secretary Asad Majeed Khan. The new Chinese State Councillor and Foreign Minister Qin Gang told him "the iron-clad friendship between China and Pakistan has withstood the test of time and the changing international landscape" and pledged that Beijing would "strive for greater development of the building of the China-Pakistan Economic Corridor and bilateral cooperation across the board".

Mr. Qin, in his first press conference as Foreign Minister during the NPC, outlined the broad priorities for Mr. Xi's third term, saying Beijing "will take it as our mission to defend China's core interests and firmly oppose any form of hegemonism and power politics." "China has had a growing network of friends, made more and more new friends, and strengthened ties with old ones," he said. "We will offer more, better Chinese insight and solutions to help meet humanity's common challenges."

Global initiative

Against the backdrop of worsening China-U.S. relations, Mr. Xi is with increasing frequency extolling what he calls "Chinese modernisation" as an alternative to Westernisation and liberal democracies.

Mr. Xi on March 15 unveiled what he called a "Global Civilisation Initiative" – the fourth such idea he has promoted, following the Belt and Road Initiative, the Global Development Initiative and the Global Security Initiative – which, he described when arriving in Moscow, as "part of China's response to the changes of the world".

Imran Khan gets bail in terror cases, Pak. Parliament to hold special session

Associated Press
LAHORE

A Pakistani court on Tuesday granted former Prime Minister Imran Khan a weeklong bail in two new cases in which he faces terrorism charges, officials said. The ruling gave the embattled ousted premier another brief reprieve from arrest.

Pakistan's parliament is to meet in a special joint session on Wednesday to enforce the state's authority in the midst of prolonged anti-government defiance by Mr. Khan.

The office of the Speaker of Parliament did not give a reason but the state-run APP said the ruling coalition had called for Parliament to "take important decisions" to ensure the writ of the state was enforced.

Tata Motors to raise prices of commercial vehicles up to 5%

Tata Motors has announced a price increase of up to 5% on commercial vehicles beginning April 1, 2023. "The decision to increase prices is a result of the company's efforts to comply with the more stringent BS-6 phase II emission norms," the company said in a statement. "The price increase will be applied across the entire range of commercial vehicles, with the exact amount varying according to the individual model and variant," Tata Motors said.

NMDC raises iron ore prices for third time since January

Mining major NMDC has raised the price of iron ore lump by ₹100 a tonne and that of fines by ₹200 for a similar quantity effective Tuesday. Consequently, the price per tonne is ₹4,500 for lump ore and ₹4,110 for fines, NMDC, India's largest iron ore producer, said in a filing. Iron ore is a key raw material for steel and any increase in its price is an indicator of the demand for the end product. This is the third revision in prices undertaken by the NMDC since January.

I-T demands on black money abroad cross ₹15,000 crore

Demands for tax on undisclosed income overseas in first nine months of current fiscal slowed to ₹2,098 cr., from ₹ 7,055 cr. in FY21, ₹5,350 cr. in FY22, Finance Ministry reply to Rajya Sabha shows

The Hindu Bureau
NEW DELHI

The war against black money stashed abroad appears to have slowed down in the first nine months of FY23 compared with the previous two years, with just 59 assessment orders for tax demands totalling ₹2,098 crore being passed, Minister of State for Finance Pankaj Chaudhary's reply in Parliament shows.

In 2020-21, 120 such orders were passed under the Black Money (Undisclosed Foreign Income and Assets) and Imposition of Tax Act, 2015, raising demands for ₹7,055 crore. In FY22, 183 orders were issued for ₹5,350 crore tax.

Overall, assessments under this 2015 law have been completed in 408 cases, raising tax demands exceeding ₹15,664 crore. "As on December 31, 2022, 127 prosecutions have been launched under the" Act, Mr. Chaudhary informed.

Panama, Paradise leaks

In the Panama and Paradise Papers leaks cases, undisclosed income of more than ₹13,800 crore had been brought into the tax net by December 2022.

"More than 250 India-linked entities have been identified in Pandora Papers Leak," he added.

Top 22% firms remit 90% of GST kitty, says Nirmala Sitharaman

The Hindu Bureau
NEW DELHI

The top 22% businesses having a turnover above ₹50 crore pay 90% of India's Goods and Services Tax (GST), Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman said on Tuesday, dismissing an Oxfam report's conclusions that the richest 10% contribute a fraction of the GST kitty, while the poorest 50% contribute two-thirds of the revenues.

The Oxfam report "seems to be based on various improbable assumptions and not irrefutable or verifiable facts", the minister said in Rajya Sabha, noting that the GST is a consumption tax collected from suppliers and not from the ultimate consumers of goods and services.

"Therefore, it is not possible to exactly calculate how much GST is actually paid by whom. From the data of return filing, it is evident that 90% of GST is paid by top 22% businesses of India having turnover above 50 crores," Ms. Sitharaman added.

The Oxfam Report is based on estimated expenditure on certain food items and non-food items and said 64.3% of the total GST collected from these items comes from the bottom 50% income group and 3%-4% from the top 10%. "Thus, the percentage is not with respect to the total GST revenue but GST from only some selected items," the FM said.

India to buck global slowdown, maintain expansion: RBI officials

The Hindu Bureau
MUMBAI

Even as the global economy is set to slow down or even enter a recession in 2023 as financial markets worldwide face heightened uncertainty, the Indian economy is steadily gathering momentum, Reserve Bank of India (RBI) officials headed by deputy governor Michael D. Patra wrote in an RBI Bulletin article.

India had emerged from the pandemic years stronger than initially thought, they asserted.

"Unlike the global economy, India would not slow down – it would maintain the pace of expansion achieved in 2022-23," the officials wrote, adding: "We remain optimistic... whatever the odds".

The officials observed that the NSO's end-February data indicated that the economy was intrinsically better positioned than many parts of the world to head into a challenging year ahead, mainly because of its demonstrated resilience and its reliance on domestic drivers.

However, they did flag price stability as a concern.

"Consumer price inflation remains high and core inflation continues to defy the distinct softening of input costs," they observed.

Noting that the bank collapses in the U.S. in the first half of March were rippling through global financial markets, with the likely impact of the meltdown on economic activity appearing to be limited at present, they said markets were, however, bracing for tighter financial conditions.

"Fear is creeping back," they wrote.

Sensex rallies 0.77% as bank, energy stocks gain

The Hindu Bureau
MUMBAI

The Sensex on Tuesday gained 445.73 points, or 0.77%, to 58,074.68 on firm global cues and gains in energy and banking stocks.

Top gainers include Reliance (3.11%), Bajaj Finance (2.88%), Titan (2.15%), Axis Bank (2.14%) and IndusInd Bank (1.94%). "Firm global cues led to an upbeat start, but mixed trends among index heavyweights capped the momentum," said Ajit Mishra, VP, Technical Research, Religare Broking.

Panel to moot ways to lure Indian start-ups back home

The Hindu Bureau
NEW DELHI

In a bid to woo Indian startups that are domiciled abroad to relocate to the GIFT City in Gujarat, the International Financial Services Centres Authority (IFSCA) on Tuesday constituted an expert committee headed by former Reserve Bank of India executive director G Padmanabhan to identify their concerns.

"Many Indian startups are domiciled outside India – despite having the majority of their market, personnel and founders in India. These 'externalized' or 'flipped' startups constitute a large number of India's unicorns," the IFSCA said. India, it said, has the world's third-largest startup ecosystem with 115 unicorns (firms with billion-dollar valuations). It is further estimated that Indian startups raised $44 billion in 2021.

Finding solutions

"In order to better understand the nuances from regulatory, tax, legal and other perspectives and identify measures required to make India the preferred location, IFSCA has constituted an expert committee to formulate a roadmap to onshore the Indian innovation to GIFT IFSC," the authority said in a statement on Tuesday.

The committee, which is expected to submit its recommendations within three months, includes representatives from leading venture capital funds, startups, fintechs, law firms, and tax firms as well as other domain experts. Apart from measures to encourage Indian fintechs and startups domiciled abroad to relocate to GIFT IFSC, the panel would also identify challenges and recommend measures for the development of International Innovation Hub at GIFT IFSC.

Casagrand Group to invest ₹8,000 crore in commercial real estate

The Hindu Bureau
CHENNAI

Casagrand group of companies announced its foray into the commercial real estate segment to develop 10 million sq. ft. of leasable areas in Chennai, Bengaluru and Hyderabad by 2027.

"It is another new vertical in which we are planning to invest ₹8,000 crore in the next five years," said Arun Mn, founder-MD.

Rental potential

'Casagrand Commercial Division' aims at developing commercial spaces with a likely annual rental potential of ₹900 crore.

To begin with, Casagrand would unveil its maiden project in Chennai measuring 2 million sq.ft.

Last year, Casagrand earned ₹2,500 crore in revenue and this year, it aimed at selling ₹4,550-crore projects eyeing a revenue of more than ₹3,000 crore, Mr. Arun added.

"This is an exciting time as many government initiatives are being taken to develop infrastructure, and we see a huge potential in this sector and a gap between demand and supply."

'Curbs on Gulf flights will retard India's growth, cost carriers dear'

The Hindu Bureau
NEW DELHI

He is a global aviation leader today, but Emirates President Tim Clark's childhood memories are filled with experiences of flying with Air India.

Tim Clark

However, just as its nationalisation 'snatched' an opportunity for India, the government's reticence today to allow Gulf carriers more flights into India could "constrain" growth here and result in losses of "$800-$900 million" for airlines, said Mr. Clark.

"We're not here to threaten. We are never here to cause worry," he said at a media roundtable on the sidelines of the CAPA India Aviation Summit 2023.

"We are here to add value to the Indian economy and for the citizens of India," he asserted.

Dubai has demanded that the air service agreement it signed with the Government of India in 2014, allowing its airlines to fill 66,000 seats to India, be raised by another 50,000.

"If you don't expand the capacity, the losers will be people who want to go there [the Indian citizens]. Carriers will lose $800 to $900 million worth of income every year by not taking that growth up to where we think it should be today," the Emirates President said.

The government's reluctance ironically comes at "hugely exciting times" and "enthusiasm" in the India story such as the "8% GDP growth outstripping just about every GDP CAGR in the world," Mr. Clark underlined.

Nikhat, Nitu, Manisha and Jaismine advance

WORLD BOXING

Nikhat Zareen defied a tired body and another doughty opponent, Mexican Fatima Herrera Alvarez, to book a berth in the 50kg quarterfinals of the World women's boxing championships here on Tuesday.

Nikhat was joined by Nitu Ghanghas (48kg), Manisha Moun (57kg) and Jaismine Lamboria (60kg) in the last-eight, while Shashi Chopra (63kg), Manju Bamboriya (66kg), lost their pre-quarterfinal bouts.

Nikhat, who defeated top-seeded Roumaysa Boulam on Sunday, moved well to land fast combinations on the aggressive Mexican.

Worlds bronze medallist Manisha maintained her composure to quell the challenge of hard-hitting Turkish pro boxer Elifnur Turhan through an RSC verdict. Long range counterpuncher Jaismine rallied to beat Asian bronze medallist Mijgona Shamadova.

My mantra is to not expect anything and be ready for everything, says Arshdeep

CRICKET

In the last two seasons of the Indian Premier League, Arshdeep Singh has been one of the standout bowlers. In 2021, he claimed 18 wickets at an economy rate of 8.27 and in 2022, he scalped 10 wickets at a rate of 7.70, an astonishing figure for a death-overs specialist.

The performances helped the left-arm seamer make his T20I debut against England in Southampton last July. He has since become a regular in the shortest format, and as a brand new IPL season beckons, the 24-year-old Punjab Kings bowler is keen to impress again.

Arshdeep. PTI

"My mantra is to not expect anything and be ready for everything," said Arshdeep, on the sidelines of an event organised by Parimatch Sports, a sportswear brand, on Tuesday.

"The last two years helped me mentally...to believe in my skills. Watching the results come through gave me confidence and now I know I can do well at this level."

The two matches against Pakistan were instructive. In the Asia Cup Super Four encounter, Arshdeep dropped a sitter off Asif Ali, with the latter going on to play a winning hand. But in his first T20 World Cup match, he blew away Pakistan's top-order (3/32), setting up a memorable win that culminated with a Virat Kohli special (82 n.o.).

"When you play for India, you already have some amount of confidence. Performing in that match helped me increase that. You tend to believe that you can win games, be it in domestic cricket, IPL or the World Cup."

While Arshdeep has established his credentials in T20s, he is unwilling to be straitjacketed. He has signed up to play in whites for English county side Kent this summer.

"I have played only played seven red-ball games. So I am looking forward to exploring what else I have in the bag and bring to the table... what my wicket-taking balls are and how I can apply pressure. It's an environment I have never been to before and I can learn a lot."

Men in Blue need to find a way to tackle the Mitchells' menace

Marsh, with two aggressive half-centuries, and Starc, with eight wickets in two games, have proved to be thorns in India's flesh; the spinners are expected to come to the fore for Rohit's men on a pitch likely to assist them

AUSTRALIA IN INDIA

S. Dipak Ragav
CHENNAI

Bilateral one-day internationals may have lost relevance in recent times, but for visiting teams, a series win in India is still a big deal.

The Men in Blue have only lost one ODI series since 2016, when Australia beat India 3-2 in 2019.

On Wednesday at the recently-renovated M.A. Chidambaram Stadium, the Aussies will look to repeat their feat from four years ago in the third and final one-day match of the series now level at at 1-1.

The visitors will take confidence from the commanding 10-wicket win in Visakhapatnam on Sunday to level the three-match competition after the opening-game loss in Mumbai.

Perfect finish

And an ODI series win in India ahead of the World Cup here later this year would be a perfect way to finish the tour for Australia, which lost the four-Test series 2-1. For the tourists, the two Mitchells – Marsh and Starc – have been firing on all cylinders with bat and ball, respectively, in the series.

Marsh, who has opened the batting in the absence of David Warner, has grabbed the opportunity with both hands with consecutive half-centuries to amass 147 runs so far.

In a positive development for the Aussies, Warner batted in the nets for over 20 minutes on Tuesday.

The left-handed batter missed the first two matches as he had not fully recovered from his elbow injury. If the swashbuckling opener does return, Marcus Stoinis is likely to be the one to make way for him.

Meanwhile, India will look to complete a clean sweep of the series win at home this year, having blanked New Zealand and Sri Lanka 3-0. However, Australia has proved to be a far more formidable opponent.

In the two matches, the Indian top-order has been found wanting in seamer-friendly conditions against the Aussie pace attack led by Starc.

With the new ball, the left-arm seamer made full use of the assistance from the pitch and ambient conditions, taking eight wickets in the two outings, including a five-for in the second match.

Starc has had the right-hander heavy Indian top-order in a tangle, especially with the ball coming in. It is something Rohit's men would look to address.

Shubman Gill – who has had a stellar start to his ODI career – has had a quiet series and was guilty of throwing away his wicket with loose shots in both games. The young opener would be keen to make amends in the decider.

The Chepauk pitch may not help the speedsters like the ones for the first two games, which should please the batters after two low-scoring matches. On a surface that is traditionally known to help spinners, India will fancy its chances considering its depth in the department.

The teams (from):

India: Rohit Sharma (Capt.), Hardik Pandya, Shubman Gill, Virat Kohli, Suryakumar Yadav, K.L. Rahul, Ishan Kishan, Ravindra Jadeja, Kuldeep Yadav, Washington Sundar, Yuzvendra Chahal, Mohammed Shami, Mohammed Siraj, Umran Malik, Shardul Thakur, Axar Patel and Jaydev Unadkat.

Australia: Steve Smith (Capt.), David Warner, Travis Head, Marnus Labuschagne, Mitchell Marsh, Marcus Stoinis, Alex Carey, Glenn Maxwell, Cameron Green, Josh Inglis, Sean Abbott, Ashton Agar, Mitchell Starc, Nathan Ellis and Adam Zampa.

Match starts at 1.30 p.m.

We're in a good space and clear about the kind of team we want to play: Dravid

S. Dipak Ragav
CHENNAI

India's head coach Rahul Dravid said the team management has a fair idea about the 17-18 players for the 50-over World Cup to be played at home later this year.

"We have almost narrowed it down to 17-18 players. We have a few guys who are recovering from injuries and might come into the mix, depending on the time frame of their recoveries and how long it takes for them to come back," said Dravid, ahead of the third ODI against Australia here on Tuesday.

"But all in all, we are pretty much in a good space and clear about the kind of team we want to play. Hopefully, we can give these guys who we have zeroed in on as many playing opportunities as possible," the former India skipper added.

When asked about how fruitful the three ODI series against Sri Lanka, New Zealand and Australia have been in terms of preparation for the World Cup, Dravid said, "To a large extent, I think we have got a lot more clarity at the end of these nine games, irrespective of whatever happens tomorrow (on Wednesday).

"For us now, it's just about ensuring that we play different combinations at times so that we are not surprised by anything in the World Cup."

On his side's top-order struggles, especially against Mitchell Starc in the first two matches, the coach said it wasn't an area of concern.

"We have put up some big scores in one-day cricket, so not too much of a concern, but these things can happen.

"Mitchell Starc has bowled well, so credit to him as well. I think we need to find a way to get through that spell and bat and not lose too many wickets upfront," said Dravid.

Capitals ease past Warriorz, enter final

Alice in wonderland: Everything Capsey touched turned to gold on Tuesday. EMMANUAL YOGINI

England all-rounder Alice Capsey stamped her class once more in the Women's Premier League, claiming three for 26 and making a fluent 34 (31b, 4x4, 1x6) to guide Delhi Capitals to a five-wicket win over UP Warriorz here on Tuesday.

The win, sealed with 13 balls to spare, sent Capitals into the final, edging Mumbai Indians by virtue of better Net Run Rate. MI and UPW will meet in the Eliminator on March 24.

Warriorz got off to a brisk start with Shweta Sehrawat and Alyssa Healy bringing up 30 runs in just four overs.

While Capsey and Radha stemmed the run flow with quick wickets of Healy, Simran Shaikh and Kiran Navgire, Tahlia McGrath took charge of the innings for the second game and second day in a row. McGrath scored her fourth fifty of the tournament (58 n.o., 32b, 8x4, 2x6), getting Warriorz to 138.

In response, Meg Lanning and Shafali Verma brought up 50 in 4.1 overs. Ismail removed Jemimah Rodrigues and Lanning in the seventh over, but the Kapp-Capsey show took over. By the time Capsey fell, Capitals were just nine runs away. Jess Jonassen's run out saw the game drift into the 18th over. But Kapp sealed it with a boundary.

Kerr does the star turn as Mumbai Indians subdues Royal Challengers Bangalore

P.K. Ajith Kumar
NAVI MUMBAI

After a bit of an aberration, normal service resumed at the Women's Premier League. Mumbai Indians won. Royal Challengers Bangalore lost.

The Mumbai women, who lost their last two games, must be relieved with their four-wicket victory at the D.Y. Patil Stadium on Tuesday. After reducing RCB to 125 for nine, they romped home with 3.3 overs to spare.

MI captain Harmanpreet Kaur won the toss for the first time in the tournament. Off the third ball, Sophie Devine, fresh from her astonishing 36-ball 99 against Gujarat Giants, was run out following poor communication with her skipper and opening partner Smriti Mandhana.

Smriti, though, began to show glimpses of her silken touch that had deserted her for most of the tournament. But she fell to spin again, this time top-edging the Kiwi leggie Amelia Kerr behind the stumps.

Ellyse Perry (29, 38b, 3x4) and Richa Ghosh (29, 13b, 3x4, 2x6) jointly top-scored, though in contrasting styles. Kerr finished with three wickets while the England pace duo of Nat Sciver-Brunt and Issy Wong picked up two each.

MI's chase got off to a flying start with Hayley Matthews (24, 17b, 2x4, 1x6) and Yastika Bhatia (30, 26b, 6x4) putting on 50 inside the PowerPlay. Though there was a wobble afterwards, the fifth-wicket stand of 47 between Kerr (31 n.o., 27b, 4x4) and Pooja Vastrakar (19, 18b, 2x4) ensured MI got its morale-boosting win. RCB's campaign ended with two wins and six losses.

Stellar role: Kerr (3/22 & 31 n.o.) shone for MI. SPORTZPICS/WPL

IPL-16 COUNTDOWN

Ashwin Achal

Royal Challengers Bangalore (RCB), the perennial underachiever, exceeded expectations by reaching the Qualifier 2 of IPL 2022. It took an unbeaten 108 from Rajasthan Royals' opener Jos Buttler to send Faf du Plessis' men home.

The satisfactory returns from the previous season prompted RCB to stick to the core group of players. The franchise released only five men – the fewest among all teams.

The mini auction held in December last year was used to sign reinforcements. The injury status of Australian fast bowler Josh Hazlewood is the biggest concern. Hazlewood last played an international match in January, and is yet to recover from Achilles tendinitis. England left-arm pacer Reece Topley, signed for ₹1.90 crore at the auction, will act as cover for Hazlewood.

Sri Lankan wrist-spinner Wanindu Hasaranga, the second highest wicket-taker of IPL 2022, will yet again lead the attack. Hasaranga, tough to read off the pitch, will be tasked with keeping the opposition quiet in the middle overs.

On the batting front, Rajat Patidar has blossomed into a match-winner.

Patidar's unbeaten 112 against Lucknow Super Giants made him an instant hero. This was also the only century scored by an RCB batter in the campaign.

Dinesh Karthik was another positive for RCB. Karthik hammered a few blistering knocks as a finisher, which earned him a comeback to the Indian team. The wicketkeeper batter, however, has since fizzled out of international reckoning. Karthik, who last played a competitive match in November last year, could make way for Anuj Rawat behind the stumps.

At the top of the order, skipper du Plessis is likely to take strike with Virat Kohli. du Plessis finished IPL 2022 as the team's highest run-scorer, but his strike-rate was not up to scratch.

Kohli, who bats at No. 3 for the Indian team, had a forgettable run, making 341 runs at an average of 22.73. The duo was unwilling to take an all-out attacking approach in the Power-Play – a fault they would like to correct this time around. RCB could also choose to go with Finn Allen, a fearless hitter, as opener.

The mercurial Glenn Maxwell can be the ideal middle-order hero, but the Australian has only recently returned from a broken leg. RCB will desperately need Maxwell to find some rhythm ahead of the IPL.

The indifferent form of pacer Harshal Patel, the death over specialist, is a worry. Harshal did not feature in the three-match T20I leg against New Zealand earlier this year.

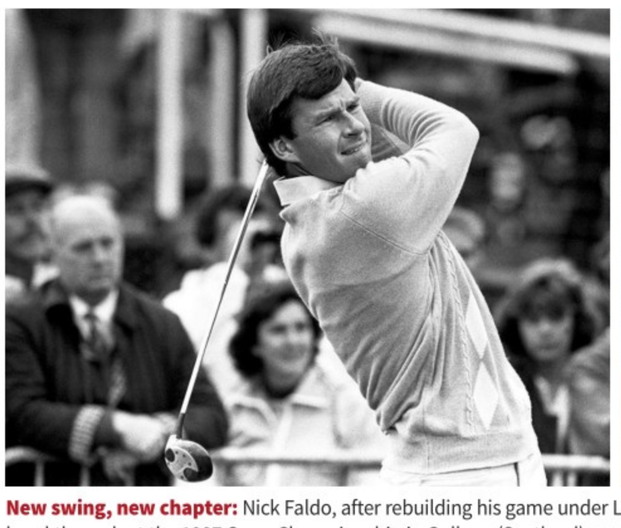
Fellow fast bowler Mohammed Siraj will be keen to rectify a poor run last year. Siraj picked up only nine wickets in 15 matches, and was quite expensive. Siraj's tournament economy rate of 10.07 was indicative of the tough time he had with new and old ball.

Given the dip in form of key players, it will take a spectacular effort for RCB to clinch a long-awaited maiden IPL title.

Faldo recounts a gamble that paid rich dividends

GOLF

Ashwin Achal
BENGALURU



New swing, new chapter: Nick Faldo, after rebuilding his game under Leadbetter, found a Major breakthrough at the 1987 Open Championship in Gullane (Scotland). GETTY IMAGES & SUDHAKARA JAIN

A six-time Major winner, Nick Faldo is regarded as the best British golfer of all time. For much of the early 1990s, Faldo dominated the sport, spending 97 weeks on top of the Official World Golf Ranking.

But things were tough in the early days of his career. In the mid-80s, Faldo – frustrated at being unable to win a Major – took a big gamble by completely rebuilding his swing under instructor David Leadbetter.

Faldo had to start from scratch, and predictably, results did not go his way. It took nearly two years for the efforts of Faldo and Leadbetter to pay off.

Faldo finally broke the barrier at the 1987 Open Championship – his maiden Major triumph. Faldo entered the final day one shot behind American Paul Azinger, who was looking to win The Open Championship in his first attempt.

Treacherous conditions

The players were tested by treacherous conditions at Muirfield Golf Links in Gullane (Scotland). The course was covered by a thick layer of mist, leading to high scores.

Faldo's new swing, however, came through with flying colours. The Englishman showed nerves of steel to make 18 straight pars, while Azinger's game fell apart.

"The weather that day was unbelievable. The thick fog - I call it the Scottish pea soup fog.

"The golf ball was going nowhere, so we had to carefully judge what club to hit with. Good luck trying to make even a couple of pars, let alone eighteen," Faldo said here on Tuesday.

Faldo spoke at the announcement event of the inaugural Duncan Taylor Black Bull Challenge, which will be held at the KGA course here from March 23 to 26.

> That Open win gave me huge confidence. I kept fine-tuning my game

"I was very nervous on that Sunday. It ended up being a historic day, and the start of my Major career. It was a great reward for changing my swing," Faldo said.

There was no looking back from here for Faldo. He went on to win two more Open titles (1990 and 1992), three Masters (1989, 1990 and 1996), and was inducted to the World Golf Hall of Fame in 1997.

"That Open win gave me huge confidence. I kept fine-tuning my game, and got better and better over the years," Faldo said.

India takes on Myanmar in Tri-Nation friendly opener

Amitabha Das Sharma
IMPHAL

There is excitement among the football fans in the Manipur capital as the senior men's Indian football team arrived to play a friendly Tri-Nation international tournament.

It is a big opportunity for fans to see the Indian team, which makes its maiden outing in the football-crazy State. This madness is reflected in the fact that the tickets at the venue, the Khuman Lampak Stadium, are almost over.

The tournament will have three matches in a league-format where India will be meeting neighbouring Myanmar in the opener on Wednesday and later take on a strong Kyrgyzstan in the last match on March 28.

The two visiting teams will be clashing on March 25. The trophy will go to the side that tops the final standings.

Gearing-up: The Indian team at a practice session ahead of its opener against Myanmar. RITU RAJ KONWAR

Indian head coach Igor Stimac put things into perspective by heaping tributes on Manipur for its contribution to Indian football.

"I feel excited to be in Manipur, which is a very important state for the National team. It has given so many important players to the country. Presently in our squad of 23, there are seven players who were born in this State," Stimac said in the pre-tournament media briefing.

Stimac said that he would be acknowledging Manipur's contribution to the sport by fielding a good number of the players from the State in the match against Myanmar.

RBI, TN women delight as seeded teams enter quarters

NATIONAL TT

K. Keerthivasan
JAMMU

There is no doubt that the top-seeded Reserve Bank of India (RBI) women's table tennis team is the favourite despite PSPB being the defending champion.

RBI proved it in ample measure with an imposing 3-0 victory over Kerala in the pre-quarterfinals of the senior National inter-State table tennis championships here on Tuesday.

RBI will take on Haryana in the last-eight clash.

In fact, none of the seeded teams in both men's and women's sections had any problems as they cruised into the quarterfinals. Tamil Nadu defeated Telangana 3-0 to reach the women's quarterfinals and set up a meeting with West Bengal.

After being 2-0 ahead, with V. Kowshika and S. Yashini winning their matches, N. Deepika gave her team quite a few jitters before getting the better of Harshita Thonda Lakshmi 13-11, 11-9, 9-11, 9-11, 12-10 in the third rubber.

The results (pre-quarterfinals):

Men: PSPB bt Uttarakhand 3-0; West Bengal bt Karnataka 3-1; Uttar Pradesh bt Gujarat 3-0; Delhi bt Punjab 3-0.

Haryana bt TTFI 3-0; Telangana bt Manipur 3-0; Maharashtra bt Madhya Pradesh 3-0; RSPB bt Assam 3-0.

Women: RBI bt Kerala 3-0; Haryana bt Chandigarh 3-0; Delhi bt Karnataka 3-1; Maharashtra bt Assam 3-1.

West Bengal bt Gujarat 3-0; Tamil Nadu bt Telangana 3-0; Madhya Pradesh bt TTFI 1 3-1; PSPB bt Andhra Pradesh 3-0.

Test cricket will probably disappear first in the West Indies

BETWEEN WICKETS
Suresh Menon

The first Test I watched from the first ball to the last was India v West Indies in Bengaluru in November 1974. The visitors were going through a dip then. Garry Sobers and Rohan Kanhai had played the previous Test against England, in Trinidad, but were no longer part of the team.

It was a West Indies attempting to rebuild with a younger side led by Clive Lloyd.

They had two promising batsmen making their debut – Gordon Greenidge and Viv Richards, and a young Andy Roberts who carried the legacy of fast bowling on his shoulders. For a team known for thrilling batsmanship, the West Indies came to India having won only three of their previous 23 Tests in the new decade, and having drawn 16.

The rebuilding began in Bengaluru where they won. For some two decades they were the best Test cricket had to offer.

Fast and furious

My teenage years were consumed by the excitement of West Indies cricket. They bowled faster than anybody else, batted more destructively than others, and their fielding was stunning.

They unleashed bowlers of such pace and fire that they rattled the best batsmen around the world, breaking a nose here, an elbow there and devastating fingers and toes everywhere.

Today, after the matches in the World Test Championship cycle have been completed with only the final to be played, the West Indies are eighth. Only Bangladesh are below them.

For long I believed that it was important for the West Indies to remain at the top (or roughly there), just as it was important for Brazil to do so in football. There was about their approach an abandon, a joy, a creativity that kept their respective sports alive.

Now that they have lost yet another series, this to South Africa 2-0, the figures are discouraging. Of the 217 Tests they have played this century, they have won just 48, or about 22 percent while losing 115, or 53 percent.

The reason for the decline has been enumerated often enough. It ranges from the rise of franchise cricket and the greater financial returns there, to the indiscipline of individual players, the politics of the cricket board and the unsustainability of the idea of the West Indies itself – a cricket team with players from half a dozen independent islands in the Caribbean.

The widely predicted demise of Test cricket is likely to first happen in the West Indies, the team of George Headley and Learie Constantine, of the three Ws, of Sobers and Kanhai, of Richards and Lara, of Gayle and Chanderpaul, of Ambrose and Walsh and Gibbs and so many other giants.

There was a time when Barbados alone fielded a team stronger than most Test-playing countries.

It is difficult to imagine for those who know the West Indies didn't lose a single series from 1980 to 1995 that they haven't won an away series against a team in the top eight since 1995.

Perhaps, like great civilisations, great cricket teams too rise and fall by responding (or not) to challenges. Perhaps this is cyclical too. This was a comforting thought in the days before franchise cricket when choices were limited by opportunity and money.

That is no longer the case now, and if young sportsmen from the West Indies islands focus on T20 franchises or basketball or any other sport, the pickings are certainly more attractive.

Test cricket will survive in the West Indies so long as the players and administrators think it is important, and everything now points to it disappearing from the islands, to be replaced by more practical and paying options.

Caste-system in cricket

Despite glowing speeches about preserving Test cricket, the fact is that a caste-system has invaded the sport. At the top, the Brahmins of Test cricket are India, Australia and England. All other teams are seen as also-rans in spite of the Future Tours Programme and the World Test Championship.

This is true of the fans, of administrators and television. The only exception would be an India-Pakistan series, but that's not likely to happen any time soon.

Despite their storied history and powerful legacy, Test cricket in the West Indies seems to be approaching the end of the road. For my generation that is depressing news.

A decade ago, Lloyd, commenting on the state of West Indies cricket said, "I can tell you I have no more tears."

That is probably the case with all who worshipped that once great team.

Sri Kshetra Dharmasthala Rural Development Project has been rejuvenating tanks under the "Nammooru-Namma Kere" programme across the State.

Rejuvenating a tank means giving new life to small sources of water, flora and fauna in the region. People have to join hands and come together for rejuvenation of tanks thinking it is their tank. We revere filled tanks as Ganga; let us protect them from pollution.
